3 Mansfielders on Batan Reported Safe

FIRST WORD OF MEN RECEIVED VIA RED CROSS

Relatives Here Told Troops With Gen. MacArthur Are 'Safe and Well.'

MESSAGES SENT MARCH 4

2 Others In Tank Battalion Reported O. K. In Word Sent Earlier.

First reassuring word in months has been received concerning three of Mansfield's sons with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's heroic band on besieged Batan peninsula, it was learned today.

From the national Red Cross at Washington, following a check with the war department, came the word that Paul Grassick, George Zimmerman and Earl Charles of Mansfield were safe and well up to March 4.

Previously, word had been received concerning two others of Mansfield's contingent with the small force that is making history with its successful defense against overwhelming Japanese odds. The others previously reported safe, as of Feb. 14, were Albert L. Allen and John E. Robinette.

All five are with the tank battalion which figured in a spectacular tank battle with Japanese tanks some weeks ago. Allen is a sergeant, the rest privates.

As always, the notification concerning the safety of the youths was terse and matter-of-fact, but it brought tremendous relief to families and friends of the youths involved.

"The above named is not entered in any list of lost, prisoners, or casualties," the message reads

Mrs. Alex Grassick, Paul's mother, reported that the word was the first she had received since last Nov. 28. She made application to the local Red Cross office here on Feb. 6, and it was more than a month later that the word finally has been received.

These five youths, along with two others related to Richland county residents, landed at Manila last Thanksgiving, only a few short weeks before the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor which precipitated the Pacific conflict,

Robert Miller, of R. D. 4, Mansfield, and John Minner, of Port Clinton, a brother of Mrs A. C. Adams, the two others known to be with MacArthur.

THREE SHOT

Trainmen Wounded In Fracas Over Railroad Strike.

PEORIA, Ill—(AP)—Three trainmen were shot last night in strike violence climaxing a day during which a senator demanded that President Roosevelt take over operation of the 239-mile Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad.

Senator Mead (D., N.Y.) urged presidential intervention unless George P. McNear, president of the line, immediately stopped "defiance of all authority." He said McNear had been locking out employes and had defied all attempts of authorities to settle the 76-day-old controversy over a new union contract.

As the result of last night's shotgun ambushing of a train crew, Engineer E C Pittman was likely to lose the sight of one eye, physicians said The others wounded were Bert Taylor, fireman, and Harold Kipling the line's chief special agent.

WALL STREET'S CALM ONCE MORE

But Accidental Firing of Anti-Aircraft Gun Gave It Jitters Yesterday.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Wall Street recovered its equanimity today in the wake of an air raid scare that gave thousands of office workers in the financial district shivers and excitement.

The burst of anti-aircraft shells that went whistling over lower Manhattan yesterday about the time business houses were preparing to close for the day was attributed to an accident after a preliminary investigtaion by army officials.

Rumors of a bombing raid by enemy planes or fire from an enemy submarine ran rife as one of the eight shells from the anti-aircraft gun mounted along the East river struck a cornice near the top of the 41-story Equitable building.

Shell fragments and particles of brick and stonework fell to the streets below. Air raid wardens rushed to their posts. Pedestrians jammed doorways and peered skyward. Radio cars and fire engines, sirens screaming, roared into the area.

Police, like everyone else, were mystified until army officials notified them that an anti-aircraft gun had been discharged accidentally.

Friday 13th Jinx Cuts Deeply Into Tax Collections

The Friday the 13th jinx put a damper on tax collections at the courthouse yesterday, real estate tax receipts dropping to less than one-third and personal property listings to one-half of the preceding day's figures.

Real estate payments which have been heavy this week amounted to $10,801 yesterday. Collections Thursday totaled $37,024. The weather was bad both days and the Friday the 13th superstition was the only explanation county officials could offer for the difference in the receipts for the two days.

Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said 75 persons listed personal property yesterday as compared with 150 Thursday. There was a rush of property owners to pay real estate and personal taxes again today and Treasurer Charles C. Payne and Auditor Wolfe kept their offices open until 4 p. m. to accommodate taxpayers who had to work until noon.

Real estate receipts reached $426,350 today with only five days left to pay taxes before the March 20 deadline. Personal property listings and taxes will be handled until April 1 without penalty.

Declare Hitler Ordered Own Air Ace Shot Down

Berne Reports Say Anti-Aircraft Batteries Told to Fire on Moelders After Tiff With Fuehrer.

(INS Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright 1942)

BERNE—Adolf Hitler ordered anti-aircraft batteries at Breslau to shoot down Germany's greatest air ace Lieut Col Werner Moelders, following a quarrel over Nazi brutality last November, reliable sources in Berne reported today.

Hitler issued the order after the 28-year-old colonel, who was credited with destruction of 115 enemy planes, had removed the coveted knight's cross decoration from his uniform and returned it to the fuehrer in protest against the brutality of the Nazi S. S troops, the sources said.

It was announced officially in Berlin Nov. 22 that Colonel Moelders had been killed in a Breslau crash while making a business flight in a transport plane. He subsequently was given a state funeral and the pursuit squadron which he commanded was designated by his name. The government announced at the time called Moelders "the bravest and best" of German pursuit pilots and termed his achievements "without precedent."

Berne sources insist, however, the colonel died because he demanded an audience with Hitler to express indignation over the manner in which S. S. troops had driven nuns and monks from their convents in various parts of Germany. Moelders was a pious Catholic and his sister,

GETS SENTENCE

Nazi Propagandist Ordered to Prison 2 to 6 Years.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— George Sylvester Viereck, German-born American citizen convicted as a propagandist for the third Reich, today was under a federal prison sentence of two to six years.

Counsel for the poet-journalist who fell afoul the registration act of 1938 by failing to give a complete outline of his activities on behalf of Germany, asked the District of Columbia court of appeals to release him on bail pending action on appeal.

Justice F. Dickinson Letts yesterday sentenced Viereck, fining him $1,500 and costs as well as sentencing him to federal prison for the limit allowed by law.

60 PER CENT PAY UP

TAX RUSH ON AT POSTOFFICE

Income Tax Office to Be Open Sunday and Until Midnight Monday, Collectors Say.

The last minute rush to file income tax returns before the deadline Monday was in full swing at the Mansfield postoffice today as hundreds of taxpayers stood patiently in line to await their turn at the internal revenue office.

To accommodate the rush that yesterday gave the postoffice money order department the largest day in its history, the internal revenue office will remain open until midnight Monday instead of closing at the originally scheduled time of 5 p m The time was extended today, Charles S. Mosey, deputy collector, said, after orders had been received from the Cleveland internal revenue office.

Both the internal revenue office and the money order window have extended their closing time for today to 1 p. m. and the internal revenue office will be open Sunday for the first

RESUME HUNT FOR SALESMAN

Police Broadcast Description of Missing Mansfielder.

The search for a Mansfield jewelry salesman missing since last Saturday with $1,400 worth of jewelry samples went into its second day today

Police Chief Thomas M Bell said that a description had been broadcast by state police radio of F. M Christensen, 39, of 69 North Weldon avenue, a salesman for the Shaw Jewelry company, who was reported missing by Leo T. Ziedman, manager of the store, on Thursday night.

Neither Ziedman nor Mrs Christensen were able to tell police of the whereabouts of the salesman except that Christensen had told his wife he was going to Chicago on a business trip. Police are also contacting Chicago authorities to aid in the search.

MAYOR SIGNS GAS STATION CURFEW BILL

Locke Reverses Earlier Stand On Ordinance Fixing Hours For Gasoline Sale.

TAKES EFFECT MARCH 24

Measure's Approval by Mayor Brings Filing of Injunction Suits Nearer.

Reversing his stand of yesterday morning in which he said he contemplated no immediate action, Mayor W J Locke late in the afternoon gave his approval to a curfew for Mansfield filling stations by signing an ordinance passed by city council last Tuesday.

Earlier in the day, Locke stated "there's no point in signing it and forcing the city to defend injunction suits" He indicated then that he would not veto the measure but that he would not decide until Monday whether to sign the ordinance or to let it become a law without his signature

The ordinance, passed last Tuesday night by city council, prohibits the sale of gasoline, oil, grease or other automobile supplies between 7 p. m. and 7 a. m. daily and between 1 p. m. Sunday and 7 a. m. Mondays.

City Solicitor Leslie K Wagner said today that although council had included an emergency clause in the ordinance that it would not go into effect for ten days

Wagner explained that the ordinance will be advertised and would not go into effect until 10 days after the appearance of the advertisement The city solicitor said that this precautionary move was being made to establish the validity of council's action should it be necessary to carry the enforcement of the ordinance into a court fight First publication of the advertisement was made today This makes it effective March 24

Legal representatives of the Standard Oil company and the Fair Price company were in the city Thursday to learn the status of the ordinance and said that the firms were ready to bring actions into common pleas court immediately for temporary injunctions

FIVE MISSING

14 Crewmen Saved After Two Torpedoes Hit Freighter.

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Five members of the crew of a small Norwegian freighter, torpedoed and sunk off the Delaware-Maryland coast last Tuesday, were unaccounted for today, according to an announcement of the fourth naval district.

Fourteen survivors of the crew of 20 spent 13 hour in a life boat before being rescued. The body of the ship's captain, Arthur Dahl, of Norway was recovered by a fishing boat.

Two torpedoes were fired into the vessel without warning the navy said, and the ship sank within one and a half minutes One life boat was launched by seven crew members and they picked up seven of their mates from the water

Battle Off Japs Convoy Raids, Arrive Safely

U. S. Reports No Loss as Planes, Warships And Troops Swing Into Action Against Offensives on Aussies and India; New Zealand Thrust Hinted.

(By United Press)

American expeditionary forces—flying fortresses, warships and troops—played a leading role today in a spreading battle to stop Japan's offensive on the approaches to Australia and India.

The presence of the United States forces in Australia was disclosed after weeks of censorship due to military necessity. It came at a time when Allied airplanes again were battering at Japanese-held bases on New Guinea and New Britain islands and hunting for an enemy armada in the Solomon islands, athwart the main supply line from America and on the road to New Zealand.

The Australian air ministry said that bombers blasted at least 10 enemy planes and caused extensive damage to enemy-held airports at Rabaul and Gasmata. Japanese planes attempting their 13th attack on persistently-bombed Port Moresby met heavy defense fire.

American air forces which had been active in the battle of the Dutch East Indies now are fighting from Australian bases but dispatches disclosed also that thousands of United States troops have arrived there after weathering Japanese attacks on convoys plowing through the southwest Pacific

American warships, it was indicated aided in fighting off enemy threats to convoys and it was hinted that the Japanese attackers suffered losses. In any event, the reinforcements reached their destination without loss

These United States forces obviously were only a part of the vast land, sea and air armies needed to turn back the Japanese threat to Australia and New Zealand and to keep open the American supply lines to the Far East But it was observed that the enemy push toward Australia in the last few days has made little progress so far as definite reports are concerned

The British radio reported that as many as 16 Japanese ships, including a cruiser and a destroyer, had been sunk around New Delhi while flying fortresses were credited with knocking out at least some of the New Guinea air bases from which the enemy hoped to launch all out attacks on Port Moresby.

Furthermore, there was increasing evidence that the Japanese were veering eastward through the Solomon islands toward the New Hebrides and New Zealand in an effort to strike at the American supply line before it is too late. In this connection, it was suggested repeatedly that the enemy might attempt to invade New Zealand—despite long sea communications to those islands—before making a direct assault on Australia.

The fact that American forces—numbers undisclosed—are ready for the battle of Australia had been known to newspapermen for some weeks but leaked out to the public slowly due to operations of military censorship and apparent mixups between censors in Australia and Washington.

Dispatches telling of arrival of some American troops in Australia as early as December were killed by the United States censor and later messages from United Press correspondents who arrived with convoys from the United States were suppressed because of military precautions dictated both by the general strategy of war and by the necessity of protecting American forces en route.

BLASTED: Western Germany Hit by Tons of British Bombs

(By United Press)

LONDON—Giant British bombing planes hurled tons of bombs on industrial western Germany during the night in what appeared to be one of their greatest recent raids, and an air ministry communique said that many big fires were left raging as they flew homeward

Continuing a five-day non-stop aerial offensive, the British planes made Cologne their chief target and dropped what the air ministry called a "great weight" of high explosive bombs on vital war-industrial areas

Radio Oslo German-controlled was heard broadcasting admissions from Berlin that the raid was very heavy and that "civilian damage" was done.

It was indicated that a formidable fleet of the biggest bombing planes in the Royal Air force, including Stirlings and Halifaxes and perhaps new Lancasters, had taken part in the attack.

The Friday-the-13th raid on Cologne was the first since Friday Feb 13

In addition to raiding Germany, the British planes attacked targets in German-occupied territory and laid mines in enemy waters to keep in port warships which might seek to put out for the Norwegian coast or to take to the high seas as commerce raiders.

Four planes were missing after the night's operations.

British planes were almost continuously in action, from late yesterday when strong raids were made on northern France and

SHAMBLES: Scorched Indies Have Little Value to Japan

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—(Delayed)—The unprecedented thoroughness of the scorched earth policy in the rich oil fields of the Netherlands East Indies turned them into a costly shambles and made it extremely unlikely that they would be of any value to the Japanese for some time, a Dutch authority said today.

J. B Aug Kessler, managing director of the Royal Dutch Petroleum company, which owns the greater part of the oil wells in the Dutch East Indies, told of the extent of the destruction in an interview given to Henry Van Dam, staff correspondent of Aneta, Netherlands Indies news agency.

Kessler said that whole settlements were destroyed, that Dutch families sacrificed their homes and all they had in the world as their share in the effort to beat Japan.

"Each area was turned into an ocean of flame which gradually changed into a dismal desert of ruin," the oil official said, telling how oil tanks, pumping stations, power plants, pipe lines, store houses, and the conveniences of swimming pools, canteens, playing fields and theaters were destroyed.

By wiping out the oil centers of Tarakan, Balikpapan and Pelambang, the Dutch cut off 88 per cent of the total oil available in the East Indies, it was said.

GEN. JOHNSON: Henderson Checks Brazil Rubber Source

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — The story continues to circulate in Washington, with too much circumstance to neglect, that a manpower board is to be set up in WPB.

Gen. Johnson.

It is said that the long fight between Miss Perkins, Paul V. McNutt and Sidney Hillman over the office of czar of manpower will thus end in a victory for Hillman. To all this is added a conjecture that the power will be added to draft men for labor as well as arms, as Mrs. Roosevelt has recently urged.

In the fulness of such unequalled powers, Hillman's would be the sole agency through which industry could hire workers. He would create priorities among factories as to which should have first choice of workers.

He could transfer workers from one employer to another and establish regulations under which selective service must issue blanket exemptions for whole classes of workers and the very heart of the principle on which the draft system has won popular support wou'd be cut away.

If Mrs. Roosevelt's "draft us all" plan becomes part of the law we shall have here a complete Nazi pattern of forced labor.

No important delays in war-production have been traced to labor shortage, although several have been traced to labor-union strikes —chiefly by the CIO of which Hillman is No. 2 man.

On the president's over all-labor board three represent labor, three represent industry and three, including the president himself, are listed as "impartial" representing the public.

One of the latter is Hillman. To call him "impartial" is as big a joke as Secretary Stimson's 16 commercial planes flying in formation over Los Angeles or calling the billions we are broadcasting to bankrupt nations "lease-lend" money and not just giving it away. Hillman is as zealous a CIO partisan as could be found in the United States.

To turn war-time man-power problems of the United States over to a board dominated by Hillman would be to deliver the male population of the United States, organized or unorganized, military or non-military, over not merely to organized labor but to one of the warring factions of organized labor.

If Hillman is to have the exclusive say as to what individuals a factory can employ, whether it is engaged in war work or not, what chance has a man to get a job anywhere, if he is not a member of a union? We already know that, in many cases, he can't get a job in war work now without paying charges that are sometimes exhorbitant for a union card and the mere privilege of working.

If local boards, without either political or union bias, are no longer to say what individuals can best be spared to march with the colors without the consent of Hillman's board, we shall have turned the recruitment of the army also over to organized labor. There are many grounds of deferment from the draft beside occupational status.

Hillman has long urged that the fact of labor leadership shall be a sufficient cause for deferment. He finally put that over. If he gets away with the new one, union membership may soon become necessary for deferment even of a man with dependents. It could be a draft for the unions and not for the government.

Let's at least keep the recruitment of our military and naval forces where it has been—above reproach.

U. S. CHECKING PUBLIC VIEWS REGARDING WAR

Backyard Poll to Get Ideas Of People on Strikes, Wages, Price Fixing.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The government is making a backyard check on the public's ideas on the war program.

Responsible authorities disclosed that the opinion of all sections of the nation would be sampled informally. The poll is to get the people's views on such controversial issues as strikes, wage controls, price fixing, longer hours in war plants and even on the subject of the military campaigns.

Results may be used as a basis for new laws and executive orders to change some aspects of the war program

While the survey was said to be far from complete, an influential member of congress said there was no doubt that extensive dissatisfaction had been expressed with the progress of the military production program. This dissatisfaction was said to center on strikes and lack of materials as factors contributing to the slowing of the program.

Members of congress also have been receiving an increasingly large number of complaints, Senator Thomas (D.-Okla.) declared yesterday in letters to Donald M. Nelson, war production chief, cabinet members and other officials.

Asking the officials to appear before a senate appropriations subcommittee for general questioning, Thomas said it was obvious to him the public thought the 40-hour-week law, "exorbitantly high prices being paid for labor" and the prevalence of strikes were retarding the war effort.

President Roosevelt told his press conference yesterday that the question of wage controls as a war measure was under consideration Most administration supporters in congress concluded legislation would be in a form linking wages to the cost of living.

Dealing directly with the question of strikes, Senator Mead (D.-NY.) made public a report from Secretary of Labor Perkins to the senate labor committee. It showed that the number of walkouts in war industries had increased from 12 in January to 25 in February She said none of these was authorized by national unions.

Urging caution in any restrictive labor legislation, Mead said he was informed by the war labor board that not a single new defense strike had been certified to it since the group was formed recently.

When a Mansfield girl tucked her address in a carton o cigarets that she contributed to the Richland county "Smokes For Yanks" campaign last Christmas she felt that eventually she would hear from the recipient. And she did. Yesterday when she received the letter she said it "was something that would only happen in a million years." The letter was not only from a Mansfield man but was from one of her former fellow staff members at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. It came from Sgt. Pilot William R. Allen of the Royal Canadian Air Force now stationed in England and it was addressed to Miss Myrtle Mowry of the Mansfield-Leland. The flier said the cigarets had been received in England, Jan. 28, and the letter left there the following day, arriving in Mansfield six weeks later. Allen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey I. Williams, 18 Williams avenue.

Mrs. Perry attempted to find the owner and then turned the purse over to police. Mrs. Kreiling showed up about two hours later, ending a frantic search for the purse and money.

REPORT SAYS HE SEEKS TO SPEED SUPPLY

Price Administrator, In Rio Ostensibly For Vacation, Makes Investigation.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt has written state governors asking their co-operation to conserve rubber by limiting the maximum speed of all motor vehicles to 40 miles an hour and requiring frequent checking of tires for possible repair or retreading.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Ostensibly in Rio De Janeiro for a vacation, it was learned on high authority today that Price Administrator Leon Henderson actually is expected to make a complete investigation of the rubber production situation in Brazil.

In fact, sources close to Henderson believe the principal purpose of his visit to Brazil is to ascertain whether it will be possible to hasten the delivery of rubber supplies from that country to the United States.

The price administrator is understood to feel that it should be possible to obtain more rubber from Brazil in the immediate future than available reports estimate.

The United States and Brazil recently signed a series of agreements under which the American government is extending $100,000,000 in credits to help finance the production of Brazilian rubber, as well as other natural resources in that country.

A special fund of $5,000,000 was set up to be used in collaboration with the Brazilian government in developing wild rubber in the Amazon River valley.

Under the terms of the agreements, the United States will purchase Brazilian rubber for a period of five years. Dr Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister, recently said there are 20,000,000 rubber trees in the Amazon jungles which can be tapped to produce rubber for the war program.

Henderson's visit to Brazil coincides with the predictions of independent rubber experts that if the potential rubber resources of Latin America are properly developed, the Americas can make themselves completely independent of the rest of the world in regard to that vital product of the machine age.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Manhattan Nights.

THERE is always a story behind the story on Broadway, and for the latest example you might take song star Jane Pickens and her newest and most devoted beau, Bill Walling

Kilgallen

They have already been romantically linked in most of the gossip columns, and almost any evening you can see them playing gin rummy in the Barberry Room of El Morocco. Because Jane is appearing at Loew's State, Walling can frequently be found backstage at that temple of entertainment.

So it is no great scoop to relate that on Saturday last Jane and Bill strolled into the Museum of Modern Art on 53rd St. and spent a pleasant afternoon inspecting the exhibition of Civil War photographs.

But this is the story behind the story: In 1865, at Fort Fisher, N. C., one of the southern officers in command was Major Abner Crawford A New York company in the attacking 142nd Regiment was commanded by Captain William H Walling

Jane Pickens, if you haven't guessed it already is the granddaughter of Major Crawford And Bill Walling is the grandson of Captain William H Walling of the winning side

Mischa Auer who is providing the comedy on the same Loew's State bill, had a novel experience the other evening when his colored dresser, Willie Higgins shuffled up and informed the comedian that he had been offered a new job.

"I've got a chance to go with Arthur Caesar's new show," he said, "and I would like to take it, but I don't like to leave you"

"Go ahead, Willie," Auer urged "if you think the job is good, grab it, by all means. I'll get another boy"

"That's just it, Mr. Auer," Willie said "If I leave, you'll put someone else in my place. You see, I ain't sure I'll like my new job, and maybe it'll fold So would it be all right if I put my standin in my place here?"

"Stand in?" Auer's eyebrows shop up twelve flights

"Yes sir, my stand-in" Willie said. "I've got a friend, also a good dresser, who can work for you until I give the word If the show folds, I come back and he goes If it's a hit, he can have my job until I come back"

So Mischa Auer is now served by little Willie Ingram, the other Willie's stand-in.

There is a little brick building on W. 48th St that many Broadwayites will tell you is "lucky." In its humble little apartments above the ground floor some of the most celebrated figures in Main Stem history—Damon Runyon and Walter Winchell were two of them—lived modestly in the days when they were struggling for a foothold Almost everyone who's occupied the semi-shabby quarters has gone on to more palatial places and fatter bankrolls

Oh, It's a very lucky building—upstairs

The ground floor is occupied by LaRiffs Tavern which has been a constant prey to restaurateurs since the beloved Billy LaRiff died It's dark now its last of a succession of owners gave up the ghost a couple of weeks ago, and its waiters and busboys — for years favorites of the Broadway mob—are now serving the "lucky" ex-roomers of the Tavern building at tables in Sherman Billingsley's Stork Club

CALL CAPITAL BLACKOUT O. K.

Officials Say Third Try at Darkening Washington Was Successful.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Federal and district officials today declared Washington's third blackout a success and announced the nation's capital soon would be plunged into total darkness in an all-out test of air raid conditions.

From 8 p m. to midnight, virtually all buildings were completely dark or lights screened effectively. In government buildings not equipped with blackout curtains, hundreds of workers sat in the dark for half an hour—the period designated for federal participation during the 4-hour trial.

Setting a good example, the White House was blacked out "for the duration" of the test.

In direct contrast, the headquarters of the office of civilian defense gave a "glaring" demonstration of what should not be done during a blackout. One hour after the 8 o'clock curfew, three windows on the top floor of the building were lighted in violation of what Director James M. Landis said had been his orders.

Asked by reporters for an explanation, Landis declared:

"Give 'em h—, when I went away from there tonight I left instructions to black out the entire building."

Landis later said he was pleased with results of the test, however, and announced he "looked forward to the complete blackout" of Washington within the next few weeks.

ACCEPT EMPLOYMENT OR LOSE BENEFITS, BUC TELLS WORKERS

Warning that workers laid off by industry due to conversion of plants to war production or curtailment of consumer goods would be denied compensation benefits if they refuse other suitable employment was sounded today by a representative of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensations.

Declaring that the war production effort demanded the "full time employment of every available worker," Thurston A. Waters, chief of the department of information of the BUC, said he did not believe that paid idleness would be approved by a majority of the citizens of the state when there were essential jobs to be filled"

Citing cases in Mansfield where unemployed workers had refused to accept jobs in plants preparing to go into war production, the bureau representative said that benefits were at present being denied these workers.

Appeals against the denial of benefits on refusal to accept other work were being accepted at the local employment office The representative said that appeals were welcomed since through the resulting decisions a uniform policy might be set up.

"We believe that by refusing benefits in these cases we are only doing our part in furthering the effort to bring every available worker into the war effort," the representative said.

According to the Ohio law a worker is not eligible for unemployment benefits if an offer of work is refused for which he or she is fitted and the job pays a rate equivalent to the prevailing wage for that type of work in the community. Benefits would not be denied it was indicated unless the job offered paid more than the worker would be entitled to receive in insurance benefits.

WILL TAKE TIME

Draft Officials Say Drawing To Last Over Eight Hours.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Selective service officials today estimated that it would take eight hours, possibly twelve, to draw the 7,000 capsules from the famed "goldfish bowl" in the nation's third draft on Tuesday in Washington.

The ceremony is expected to get underway at 6 p. m. and probably won't be completed until dawn Wednesday.

In honor of St. Patrick's day, the bowl will be escorted from Independence hall, Philadelphia, to Washington by members of the Irish War Veterans association. Capsules to be used in the drawing will bear the serial numbers, T-1, T-2, and so on.

FIRE MAROONS OHIO WORKERS

Cincinnatians Stranded On 15 Floors Of Carew Tower.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Office workers on 15 floors of the Carew Tower were marooned by a fire believed to have started from a short circuit in an elevator shaft cable late yesterday.

The Tower adjoins the Netherlands Plaza hotel, the scene of a fire Jan. 21 which caused $250,000 damage.

The blaze, discovered as scores of office workers attempted to leave the building at 5 p. m., was brought under control after firemen had battled for 30 minutes.

Ohioan Receives Nation's Highest Award for Valor

SPRINGFIELD —(AP)— The nation's highest award for wartime valor, the Congressional Medal of Honor, has been presented posthumously to 20-year-old James Richard Ward, Springfield seaman who died aboard the battleship Oklahoma in the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox advised Ward's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ward, of the citation.

The president's letter quoted the following citation:

"For conspicuous devotion to duty, extraordinary courage and complete disregard of his own life, above and beyond the call of duty, during the attack on the fleet in Pearl Harbor, territory of Hawaii, by Japanese forces on December 7, 1941. When it was seen that the U. S. S. Oklahoma was going to capsize and the order was given to abandon ship, Ward remained in a turret holding a flashlight so the remainder of the turret crew could see to escape, thereby sacrificing his own life."

3 INJURED AS VEHICLES CRASH

Three Mansfield youths suffered minor injuries when the automobile in which they were riding sideswiped a truck driven by Glenn A. Zimmerman, 27, of Cleveland, on U. S. Route 42, three miles north of Mansfield early this morning, according to state highway patrolmen.

Treated for bruises and lacerations at General hospital were James Burkhhart, 17, of 412 Cline avenue, driver of the car; Jack Saylor, 525 Crescent road and Walter Keeler, 121 Washington avenue. The driver of the truck was uninjured.

The accident occurred, patrolmen said, when Burkhart, attempting to pass another truck, collided with the truck driven by Zimmerman. Both vehicles were damaged.

Plan to Use Lake Passenger Ship as Aircraft Carrier

CHICAGO —(INS)— The hugh passenger ship Seeandbee, which for years has plied between Great Lakes ports from Duluth to Buffalo, will be converted into an aircraft carrier and used for training purposes if present plans materialize, ninth naval district headquarters announced today.

The ship is a side-wheeler, 500 feet long, with four smoke stacks, a beam of 98½ feet, and accomodations for 2,300 passengers By removing the upper deck and shifting the smoke stacks to one side, a flight deck can be created on which naval flyers can obtain carrier training in the Great Lakes.

If the change is made, the conversion will be done by the American Shipbuilding company, in Cleveland and Buffalo, the announcement indicated.

RITES MONDAY IN AKRON FOR REV. TRYON, 69

United Brethren Pastor Had Pastorate In Mansfield From 1916 to '24.

Funeral services will be conducted in Akron Monday for Rev. Sager Tryon, 69, former Mansfield pastor who died at Lakeside hospital in Cleveland Thursday night after an illness of several months.

He took a leave of absence from his pulpit at the Slusser Memorial United Brethren church when his illness became serious a month ago. Surviving are his wife, Jennie E., and 10 children. One daughter, Mrs. J. V. Yohn, lives in Shelby.

A graduate of Otterbein college, Rev. Tryon has been a United Brethren minister for 44 years and had served for more than two decades on the East Ohio Conference board of trustees. He was superintendent of the conference from 1918 to 1923.

His first pastorate was in Newark in 1906. From there he went to Ashland in 1908, to Strausburg in 1909, to Cleveland in 1913, and to Mansfield in 1916. He remained here until 1924, when he took a new pastorate in New Philadelphia. He later served in Canton and Akron.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Slusser Memorial church at 10 a. m., Monday. Burial will be in Delaware, O.

The 26-year-old structure has an assessed valuation of $28,750,000, making it the most valuable in New York. It houses 16,000 office workers.

Major Gen. Sanderford Jarman, commanding officer of the anti-aircraft command, eastern theater of operations, issued a statement in which he said preliminary investigation showed the "accident occurred through some mechanical failure in the firing mechanism of the gun."

Rev. Welshimer to Address Sunday School Workers

Rev. P. H. Welshimer, pastor for 40 years of the First Christian church at Canton, will address Sunday school workers of more than 20 Mansfield churches at the Mayflower Congregational church, 7:30 p. m., Monday, under the sponsorship of the Sunday School Superintend's association.

During the 40 years he served as pastor at the Canton church, Rev. Welshimer has built an original Bible school of 120 members into a Bible school which is the largest of all Christian churches in the world.

Will G. Herrold is chairman of the committee arranging the meeting and Charles O. Abele is president of the association.

Report Given On Visitation Program

Rev. Arthur Staples of Shelby, director of the campaign, reported today that first decisions and transfers of memberships totalling 169 were obtained in the Methodist visitation program conducted this week in Mansfield and nearby churches.

Participating were pastors and laymen of First and Central churches, Butler, Bellville, Ontario, Pavonia, and Olivesburg.

Going out in teams of two, the workers in four nights—Monday through Thursday, obtained interviews with 384 persons. Report dinners were held each evening at the Central church.

The activity here is a part of the Methodist program of home evangelism in progress throughout Ohio. A similar campaign is scheduled in Shelby next week.

REVENUE DROPS

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Because of a loss of $1,056,008 in auto sales taxes since the first of the year, total sales tax revenue for the first two months of 1942 was $2,216 less than in 1941, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported today.

MAYOR SIGNS CURFEW BILL

against enforcement of the new law.

Mayor Locke could not be reached for comment today. He left for Indian Town Gap, Pa., on the 11:32 p. m. train last night and is not expected to return until late Sunday or early Monday.

His departure was a surprise to members of his official family, most of whom did not know this morning that the mayor was out of the city.

Wagner said that the mayor had asked for a verbal opinion on whether the ordinance could be approved but not enforced immediately. The city solicitor said that the mayor had told him he intended to sign the ordinance so that he would "not embarrass council."

Locke, according to Wagner, approved the ordinance because he felt that council would override a veto. Yesterday the mayor indicated that he would either sign the bill or allow it to become effective without his signature. In either case he said, he intended to think the matter over for several days.

The mayor said yesterday that he was awaiting word from Washington of a possible move by the federal government which would supersede local action.

The curfew ordinance was sponsored by the Mansfield Gasoline Retailers association which claims representation of about 90 per cent of Mansfield's gasoline dealers.

Motorists wishing to get gasoline after the curfew hours must apply to the police department to get a signed permit which may be used at two filling stations which will remain open throughout the night.

Police Chief Thomas M. Bell has been given the task of making out a schedule of stations which will remain open. Bell has named the Sohio station at Fourth and Mulberry streets and the Cities Service company station at 168 Park avenue east for the first month of the curfew.

Although the Standard Oil and Fair Price companies said they are ready to take action, no injunction petitions were presented in common pleas court this morning.

It is believed that oil companies will wait until enforcement of the ordinance is started before asking for injunctions.

Planes, Warships, Troops Go Into Action to Defend Aussies, India.

Censorship lapses, however, permitted hints regarding the expeditionary units. Then Washington announced operations by United States airplanes in Australia and eventually permitted publication of more detailed stories, although the number, whereabouts and type of American forces was not disclosed.

On the Burma fighting front, guarding the approaches to India, the British and Chinese were attempting to stabilize a front against the Japanese about 70 or 80 miles north of Rangoon. This, it was emphasized, was not a solid front in the sense of an unbroken line.

Instead, there are a number of centers or "blobs" of resistance where the British and Chinese are fighting to halt the enemy, who has already over run all of the southern tip of Burma. Japanese tanks were used in this fighting in the Tarrawaddy sector for the first time, dispatches said, but there was little definite indication of the results so far. British fighter and bomber planes were still active, and aided in counter-attacks on the Japanese mechanized forces.

In battles between Chinese and Japanese in Honan province, in China, the Japanese were reported to have suffered considerable losses near Singyanchow and were forced to withdraw.

The Russians were closing their grip on the central front, dispatches reported, with the German position at Vyazma more seriously threatened.

Britain's Royal Air Force continued its "sustained offensive" against Axis war production centers, striking at the Hazebrouck railroad center about 35 miles from Calais and heavily bombing Cologne in Germany. Large fires were started at Cologne, where some of Britain's heaviest bombs caused extensive destruction.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1942.

Drive carefully tomorrow—or, on second thought, maybe the walk would do you good.

It is taking some people a long time to realize that a hard war can't be won in an easy way.

In the event you wish to send a letter to that department, merely address it, "Director of Program Operation Branch, Office of Co-ordinator of Health, Welfare and Related Activities, Federal Security Administration, Washington, D. C."—or maybe you'll decide not to write the letter.

Federal Sales Tax Proposal

WITH a federal sales tax already in effect on many so-called "luxury" articles of merchandise, the idea of imposing a general sales tax, to meet a part of war costs, seems to be gaining in favor.

While earlier opposition to a federal sales tax was very pronounced there is now quite general recognition that war financing will require vast sums of money from as many sources as can be found and that a sales tax will serve to distribute a portion of the tax burden in a reasonably equable way among practically everyone.

In Ohio, however, and other states which already have a retail sales tax, the proposed federal sales tax would add distressingly to the cost of merchandise and, in many instances, would prohibit purchase of needed commodities.

The Ohio retail sales tax, originally enacted as an emergency measure, has been retained as a convenient taxing agency and has piled up an unnecessarily large surplus in the state treasury.

Whatever may have been past justification for taxation beyond the reasonable needs of economical operation of state and local units of government, the present call for stupendous sums to carry on the war makes it advisable to trim other than war taxes to the absolute minimum required for maintenance of essential functions of government.

If there is to be a federal general sales tax it is none too soon to consider ways of carrying on in Ohio without revenues from the present state sales tax.

This will require unaccustomed economy, to be sure, but it is difficult for taxpayers to understand why they should be the only ones called upon to make sacrifices.

Plan To Reward Efficiency

STRANGE that it should take a war to direct attention to the quite obvious advantage of giving recognition and reward to individual employes for faithfulness, efficiency and meritorious service.

This procedure is not new, but it has heretofore been so limited in employer-employe relations as to have escaped general notice, except in a few isolated instances where large and prosperous businesses have been built through the application of that principle.

Commendation of school children, when occasion justifies, has long been recognized as an incentive to good behavior and greater effort, and this has fortunately followed through in the attitude of some employers toward employes. There are other employers, however, who take the position that comment, which sometimes takes the form of a "bawling out" should be reserved for criticism of mistakes and that praise for satisfactory work is entirely uncalled for.

While hard and fast rules regarding wages and working hours increase the difficulty of individual reward for superior ability, there is still opportunity for advancement of workers who are capable of doing more and better work than is expected of them. Mass production methods have also made recognition of individual competence more difficult than in the close association of employers and employes in smaller industries and businesses, but an idea that this can still be done is found in the proposal to speed production in war industries by a praise and reward plan, designed to direct attention to outstanding individual and group accomplishments.

Lord Kitchener's Wisdom

WHEN the World war opened in 1914, nearly everybody expected it to be short. Lord Kitchener, the head of the British army, was wiser. He announced preparations for a three years war. On the other side was Sir Henry Wilson, an eminent soldier who was to become chief of staff.

He said of Kitchener's recruits: "This ridiculous and preposterous army is the laughing stock of every soldier in Europe. Under no circumstances would these mobs take the field for two years. Then what is the use of them?" Wilson, like quite a number of his colleagues, thought the British army almost on the point of entering Berlin.

It is now realized that Kitchener was wise and Wilson foolish. In the light of recent British misfortunes, it looks as if they needed more Kitcheners and fewer Wilsons.

Two Ways of Saying It

A STORY is recalled about two fellows who engaged in a fight, after agreeing to stop when either hollered "Sufficient"—ending up with one of them calling out the word after the other had been trying for five minutes to remember it.

James A. Landis, drawn from the Harvard faculty to direct the Office of Civilian Defense, recently drew up rules of black-out procedure for federal buildings, one of which referred to "terminating the illumination."

At a press conference President Roosevelt laughingly explained that this meant "putting out the lights."

It sometimes seems that educators should not be disturbed in their work as such—always painfully remembering the sad case of one Charley West.

No Fifth Columnists In Russia

THE RUSSIANS are supposed to have eliminated their fifth columnists by shooting them. Certainly none has appeared in this war to aid the Germans. Probably the Russians, as students of past revolutionary movement, have profited by the experience of the French Revolution.

That revolution began early to expand beyond the borders of France, overrunning the Netherlands and adjoining countries, under skilful generals like Dumouriez and Pichegru. Despite their success it was not long before both deserted to the enemy, and throughout their lives remained foes of the Revolution and the Napoleonic empire. Dumouriez and Pichegru did not destroy the Revolution, but they imperiled it. Evidently the Russians learn from history.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Another storm is rattling the boards in Washington and while it probably won't assume the proportions of that which recently swept through the Office of Civilian Defense, it's likely to be a worthy successor.

This one resulted when it was discovered that behind the rough board fence that baffled sidewalk superintendents in the block between Fourteenth and Fifteenth on Pennsylvania avenue a new $600,000 two-story building to house Lowell Mellett's Office of Government Reports is being built, and that a new adjunct of the office will be a super-information bureau. According to preliminary plans, uniformly dressed girls would hand out information to all comers here to do business with the government.

* * *

IT WAS estimated that this corps of answerettes could handle about 80 per cent of the queries. Persons asking the other 20 per cent would be referred to OGR staff specialists.

Editorially the new information service has been called Mellett's "brainwave" and "the great Washington boondoggle."

Mellett says that there is considerable misconception about the building and plans for the new information service. He disclaims that the idea was his, but says it originated in the president's cabinet when department heads expressed positive ideas on a need for such an overall informational service. He points out that it is only an expansion of OGR's present U. S. Information Service which is now answering some 2,000 telephone, mail and personal queries a day.

The building is being built from funds administered by the Public Buildings Administration from a "blank check" appropriation made by congress to take care of the government's skyrocketing office needs under wartime conditions. Where funds will come from for hiring the 140 additional employes estimated necessary to man the superservice isn't apparent yet. The senate appropriations ignored a request recently that the $800,000 limit be taken off the OGR's operational allowance.

* * *

IF THIS isn't the easiest government in the world to get information out of, it isn't the government's fault. Aside from OGR, the army and navy, the War Production Board, the commerce department (one of the best the last time we looked in on them) and many other departments and agencies have their own information bureaus.

The OGR was set up under the president's reorganization act of 1939. Its functions are "assisting the president in dealing with special problems requiring clearance of information between federal and state and local governments and private institutions. It keeps the president currently informed of the opinions, desires and complaints of citizens and groups of citizens and of state and local governments with respect to the work of federal agencies."

Its division of press intelligence supplies congressmen and other government officials with a daily summary of press news and editorial discussions of "governmental, economic and related subjects," clipped from 350 newspapers.

Non-Essentials Eat Up Millions

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

A MERE matter of $382,456,288 doesn't sound like much in these days of reckonings in sums about 1,000 times that size. Still, looked at independently of such comparisons, it seems a sizable amount of money for the government to chuck away for "non-essentials."

It's the little item which according to Director Harold D. Smith's budget bureau, President Roosevelt's business office, is included in congress' 1942 appropriations to date, to be spent by our federal agencies for supplies and services that the country can perfectly well do without.

The budget bureau adds that it isn't the non-essentials total, to be sure. The bureau's still going ahead with its analysis of congressional appropriation figures and expects to add greatly to the trifling $382,456,288 already listed, but that's all it has to report just yet.

It isn't the plan to have the government refrain from spending this cash at all. The scheme, however, is to prevent it from going for non-essentials, turning it into essential directions instead, meaning war-time essentials almost exclusively.

It's accomplished through the creation of a reserve fund.

How Reserve Operates.

Assume, for example, that the agriculture department gets a larger allowance than the budget bureau thinks it needs; the estimated surplus is allocated to the reserve fund. Ditto awards to other departments and agencies. Then, when some essential situation, which hasn't been provided for, presents itself, the reserve fund is tapped to take care of it.

January 1 the fund was around $487,000,000. It's a bit more than 20 per cent smaller now, due to essential demands since then.

Far from being adversely criticized for this management, the executive end of the government generally is complimented for being as thrifty as it can. There are congressmen, however, who find plenty of fault with their own legislative organization for over-appropriating non-essentially. With wartime's absolute necessaries costing what they do today, they remark, this is a fine time to assign a single cent to foot a non-essential bill.

Transfer, as far as possible, of workers in the government's peacetime to its wartime departments and bureaus is, of course, part of the program of concentration upon the national emergency effort.

The switches are from non-essential to essential jobs.

But—

The currently non-essential setups previously were considered as essential as the dickens. Weren't they as essential as they were supposed to be a few years farther back? Or, were they essential then but not now?

And, supposing an affirmative answer to the latter question, won't they be essential again, when the war emergency is past?

If they will, will it be a simple stunt to re-establish them? Their personnels will be scattered in every direction. They'll have to be resorted out and put back into a multiplicity of their old outfits. The civil service commission is trying to keep track of them, but it's a terrific hodgepodge.

That our wartime system in Washington will disintegrate with the return of peace is no safe bet, anyway.

They Usually Stick.

A government bureau, once established, is practically eternal.

We have them yet, dating back to the last war. The theory was that they were temporary, but they are still doing business at their old stands.

The best gamble is that our newly-developing aggregation will be equally permanent. If they prove to be so, we'll have to start in on the creation of an entirely new net-work of post-war, civilian offices, multiplying our capital's official population by about two, at least.

Man About Manhattan

Biggest Show

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The greatest show in New York is a show that goes on all the time. It's a front seat at the World war. If you're a kid it costs a dime. If you're an adult it costs a quarter. But infant or octogenarian it's a thrill of a lifetime.

This show has no beginning or end. You can come in when you want to and go out the same way. It's in Rockefeller Center. It's between 50th and 49th streets on 6th avenue. It's the New York Museum of Science and Industry.

Don't let that word museum discourage you. There's nothing musty or dusty about it. It's the tools of war as they are used today. You like Messerschmitt 109's? You like Heinkel bombers? You like Spitfires and Hurricanes?

* * *

YOU walk in and see a German parachute with six hundred pounds of high explosives dangling from it. You see harbor mines and magnetic mines. You see paravanes, which look like great evil fish, and you see torpedoes, the kind that are launched from submarines and destroyers.

I saw the wing of a Hawker Hurricane that saw service at Dunkirk. It had been riddled by machinegun fire. It got safely back to England, and when the wing was replaced the old one was sent to New York.

I saw the three-bladed propeller of the first bomber ever shot down over England. Though the blades were of heavy steel, there were bullet holes through them that you could put your finger through.

I saw the twisted, torn plates of a British battleship that had been sunk, presumably in the Mediterranean. The heavy steel plates were rent like tattered rags, showing the terrific power of high explosives as used now.

I saw Russian machineguns, Belgian machineguns, British machineguns, American machineguns. I saw Bren guns, and anti-aircraft guns. I saw range finders, depth charges, which look like huge ashcans, and I saw escape "lungs" used by sailors serving on submarines of the Royal Dutch navy.

* * *

THE tail of one Messerschmitt fighter plane carried four black stripes and a huge swastika. The swastika was outlined in white against black metal. The four black stripes indicated the pilot of this fighter had shot down four enemy planes before he himself had been shot down.

I have stressed the war angle in this report, but the war is by no means the whole show at the N. Y. Museum of Science and Industry. There are continuous motion pictures revealing the wonders of this advanced machine age. There are many more facets, each as interesting as the war souvenirs that I have described here.

Around the walls, in stand-out block letters, runs a legend. It is something we should all keep in mind. I have copied it down, word for word, and here it is:

"The abundance of the earth has given America the promise of unlimited Possibility. Out of the earth . . . out of the hopes of the people . . . out of the toil and fortitude and faith in themselves . . . have come the freedom of the individual and the strength of the nation."

Timely Editorial

For Light on Union Funds.

Millions of workers who have been paying union dues through the check-off system or otherwise, will be interested to know that a proposal is made in congress to require labor organizations to give an account of their money. Rep. Carl Vinson, of Georgia, told a house judiciary subcommittee recently that he is preparing a bill to require labor groups to file with the Secretary of Commerce a declaration of reasons for their existence and a statement of assets and liabilities.

Labor organizations, Vinson said, "have attained vast economic importance and they owe an explanation to their millions of members and to the public on how they obtain and use their financial resources."

There is nothing unreasonable in such a requirement, and those on whom the duty is imposed should understand that compliance will be good policy in the long run. The huge sums collected do not become private funds of leaders, as they would admit. The money is committed to them in trust, and legal accounting is in line with laws fixing all trust obligations.—Detroit News.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Rule the Roost."

For many hundreds of years, the significance of "roost" has embraced any place where people gather.

The senate, a director's room, a school board conclave—each constitutes a roost, and "ruling the roost" long ago became figurative for running things or controlling a situation.

The literal allusion is to the perch upon which fowl rest at night; but it could not have been long before our flair for metaphor asserted itself in this direction, causing the phrase "rule the roost" to be used, not so much for the cock that lorded it over its fellow winged creatures on a pole determining which hen was to roost near him, as for the two-legged genus homo who bossed his associates.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Consider Ways to Strike Japan, Moves Point to Offensive Action

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

ONE tormenting question pre-occupied Americans: "When, for goodness sakes when, are we going to get going in the Pacific?"

For three full months the Japanese generals had had their own way, except in Batan. They had pushed out tentacles for more than 3,000 miles. From Hongkong, from Malaya, from Burma and from Java Americans heard the same sickening too-little-and-too-late report.

From American officials came assurances that an offensive was being prepared. But the average American recognized the awesome problem facing allied strategists. So much area had been lost that a successful offensive would require tremendous shipping, thousands of well-armed troops, thousands of warplanes.

How should the allies uncork their counter-offensive? There were a half-dozen theories on how best to start or carry it through:

1 Hit 'Em From Siberia. Nobody knows better than the Japanese that Russia's base at Vladivostok is only 675 air miles from Tokyo. If Russia joins the war on Japan or even agrees to let her allies use Siberian air bases the flimsy Japanese cities will be in for a pounding.

The Chinese press declared during the week that the Japanese appeared to be cooking up a surprise attack on Siberia. And in London Russians hinted that if America and Britain would help the Soviet finish off Germany this summer Russia would then help them attend to Japan.

2 Swoop Down On 'Em From Alaska. Senator George opined that if the U. S. could move 1,000 to 1,500 fighting planes of all types into those mist-shrouded Aleutian Islands reaching in a chain across the frigid Bering Sea, a long stride could be made toward kayoing Japan. He acknowledged that the planes would require considerable ground facilities. Kiska is only about 2,400 miles bombing distance from Tokyo.

A $30,000,000 highway to provide a protected route to Alaskan mainland and the Aleutians is being started up through the tundra, swampland and wild mountains of backwoods Canada and Alaska.

3 Give 'Em a Straight to the Jaw From Hawaii. The New York Daily News proposed that an American naval and air armada lunge smack across the Pacific toward Japan. Midway, America's last outpost along this route is only 2,600 miles from Tokyo. The News thought this approach more logical than sending forces under the globe to Australia (as some strategists suggest) and have them work up from there.

4 Smash Through To the Philippine and Hit 'Em From There. This would require, of course, that the U. S. naval and air forces clean up the scores of Japanese-mandated islands between Hawaii and Luzon. A Berlin broadcaster suspected that the U. S. was bent on doing this now. He said: "United States attacks against the Marshall and Gilbert Islands and the bombing attacks on the Bonin Islands (about 1,200 miles from Tokyo) reveal the general direction of U. S. strategy."

Meanwhile the Japanese seemed again to be preparing an all-out attempt to oust General MacArthur's fighters.

5 Roll 'Em Back Up From Australia. The Australian government learned during the week that the United Nations High Command is planning to assemble its maximum strength in the southwest Pacific at the earliest possible moment for such an offensive. Such a drive might be timed to catch the Japanese when they are being rolled back from India's approaches.

6 Use China As the Base of a Large-Scale Assault. Chungking is only 1,425 miles from Japanese mainland. Other points held by the Chinese are hundreds of miles closer. From bases in China American and Chinese forces could hammer at the Japanese mainland and sever Japan's supply line to the south. China has perhaps 5,000,000 regular troops. At present, of course, with the Burma Road cut, such an offensive is impossible and must await the time when America can send considerable reinforcements.

Signs that America and China already were mapping an offensive was seen when Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, former U. S. military attache at Peiping, was named chief of staff in the China theater under Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

At Home

More Youthful Staff.

The war department was shaken by its heels. The army air forces were given equality with ground and supply forces. A much more youthful general staff was created. The staff was reduced to a fifth of its former size.

But still the congressional critics were not appeased. Senator Hill, the Democratic whip and normally a close friend of the administration, urged the president to set up a super war strategy board headed by a single commander-in-chief for both army and navy.

As a further move to simplify the military command, the supreme command of all naval operations was concentrated in the hands of Admiral Ernest King, who was already commander-in-chief of the U. S. Fleet. He took over duties of Admiral Harold R. Stark as chief of naval operations. The move ended the division of authority between Stark and King. Stark became "commander, U. S. naval forces operating in European waters."

* * *

The Woman's Angle.

About 22,000,000 women, "the cornerstone of our society," listen to radio serials or "soap operas," Dr. Louis Berg, New York psychiatrist, asserts. He contends that most of the programs are "very bad" for morale. They tend to create "a morbid and hysterical excitement—the more so when it impinges on nerves already attuned to abnormalcy," he charges.

The male head of the Women's Ambulance and Defense Corps of America fired the head of the Los Angeles unit, Dorothy Bell, and accused the unit of spending too much time in "tea party discussions and fraternizing with movie stars."

Quotes

Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator: "We fight today not for the easy comfort of yesterday, but for the mastery of tomorrow."

President Roosevelt, in an address directed to the nation's farmers: "Hard, trying, difficult days are ahead. How hard and how bitter they will be depends on how well we can keep our eyes, our thoughts and our efforts directed toward the only thing that matters now for every one of us in the united nations—winning the war."

Abroad

Loot From Java.

The conquest of Java ended the first phase of the war in the Pacific. The Japanese had gathered in virtually all the areas they had declared definitely belonged to their "Greater East Asia Co-prosperity Sphere."

Japan has lifted the blockade against her, has smashed open a treasure house, loot from which may enable her to maintain her present rate of production indefinitely. Before her successes she depended for 75% of her imports on lands outside her control.

Now she has access to plenty of rubber, tin, quinine, iron ore, lead, zinc, bauxite, manganese, antimony, and nickel, coal. Oil wells can be repaired.

* * *

Australia's Protection.

On a map one would gather that the Japanese could make a short hop from Java to Darwin and be in Australia. Technically, that is correct.

But the real Australia—the Australia where most of the 7,000,000 people live—is down in the southeast corner around Sydney. The nearest town of any consequence to Darwin is Adelaide, 1,700 miles southeast across some of the most desperate country in the world.

So desolate is the country that it was not until 1940 that a highway was completed across the country to Darwin.

Another protective feature of Australia is the Great Barrier Reef running for hundreds of miles off the northeast coast of the continent.

* * *

Gateway Closed.

The fall of Rangoon, gateway to China's lifeline, the Burma road, was perhaps almost as significant as the fall of Java. But its loss did not stun the outside world like the fall of Java. Because of its exposed position its loss had been anticipated.

Enemy troops surged on toward the oil fields of Irrawaddy—and fabulous India.

* * *

Melting Snow.

The snow of the severest winter Russia has witnessed in nearly 100 years is yielding slowly to slush and mud. Wild torrents of water will sweep across the plains and threaten German communications before the ground will be dry enough for Germany's blitzbuggies. Britons doubt that a real German offensive can be launched before the end of April or perhaps even the beginning of June.

ORGAN RECITAL TO BE PRESENTED SUNDAY

Miss Mabel Zehner to Be Assisted By Mrs. G. W. Hall, Pianist, at First Presbyterian Church.

AN ORGAN RECITAL will be presented by Miss Mabel Zehner in the First Presbyterian church at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. She will be assisted by Mrs. George W. Hall, pianist. Both Miss Zehner and Mrs. Hall are well known to Mansfield music lovers.

First group of compositions to be played by the organist will consist of the following: "Two Trumpet Tunes and Air," by Purcell; "Air for G String," by Bach; "The Hen," by Rameau (Clokey); and "Imagery In Tableaux," by Edmundson.

First movement of Schumann's "Concerto In A Minor" will be played as a piano and organ duet by Mrs. Hall and Miss Zehner. For her second group of solos Miss Zehner has chosen "O Sacred Head, Now Wounded," by Bach; "An Easter Spring Song," by Edmundson; and "Easter Morning on Mt. Rubidoux," by Gaul.

Comment accompanying announcement of the latter number states that "Every Easter, in California, the townspeople ascend the heights of Mt. Rubidoux at Cock-Crow. Dawn finds them climbing on foot, in flivver, in fashionable limousine. When they arrive at the summit, a great Resurrection service is held."

Mrs. Hall will again take her place at the piano to assist Miss Zehner in playing Clokey's "Symphonic Piece," which includes "Dialogue," "Romance," "Scherzo," "Intermezzo" and "Fugue."

Dessert-Bridge Honors Pledges Of Sorority

Last of the series of parties honoring new pledges of Beta Kappa Tau sorority was a dessert-bridge held Friday at the home of Mrs. Richard Darling on Lexington avenue. Dessert was served at small tables decorated in green and white.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, March 15.

Sunday's horoscope is a rather contradictory one, with much promise of a solidifying and crystalizing of the more serious aspirations and objectives, with chances of putting these on a firm and enduring basis for security, yet a definite tendency to be rash, reckless, ungoverned, and carried to excesses by impulses or passions, would be disastrous. Self restraint and a reasonable state of mind are enjoined.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a successful and stable year if they will but put the brakes upon a proclivity to let the temper, tongue and emotions run away with them, to unreasonable and regrettable crises. The emotions are tempestuous and the mind under peculiar and disturbing tensions which may prove ominous. Be firm in self control.

A child born on this day will probably have a peculiarly temperamental quality, leading it to extremes and excesses, although it may have many excellent possibilities for success and achievement. Its training will be vital to its career.

For Monday, March 16.

Monday's astrological forecast shows a probable stabilization of the fortunes and affairs by application of sound judgment, logic, industry and tried and practical methods, while at the same time seeking to placate the opposition or ill will of those in authority, employers or others. A peculiarly clever use of imagination, intuition or other subtle force may avert a crisis.

Those whose birthday it is may have to bring to bear a subtle force of mind or emotions to circumvent menacing conditions brought about by the antagonism of superiors or employers or closer ties. Sustain this by reason, good judgment, practical methods and hard work and all my flourish. Keep alert to all forms of impositions and subterfuges.

A child born on this day while having sound and practical qualities also may have subtle, intuitive or highly emotional faculties.

MANSFIELD GARDEN STUDY CLUB MEETS

Mrs. R. R. Martin and Mrs. Charles Birch Appointed to Serve on Garden Center Committee at Club Meeting Friday.

MANSFIELD Garden Study club members held a dessert-luncheon at the Staiger tea room Friday afternoon. Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. H. D. Bishop. Thirteen members and two guests, Mrs. A. F. Ramsey and Mrs. Charles Birch, were in attendance. Mrs. R. R. Martin and Mrs. Charles Birch were appointed to serve on the garden center committee. Members answered roll call by making a short speech about their hobby flower.

Mrs. E. C. Jenkins gave information please. Mrs. George Hout gave an interesting talk on "Conservation." An attractive table arrangement of pussy willows and Chinese ibota, which was made by Mrs. B. W. Forkner, was on display. Mrs. Martin gave a paper on "Pruning and Care of Trees and Shrubs. Dessert was served at small tables decorated with appointments in pastel colors. The next meeting of the club will be held March 27 at the home of Mrs. L. D. Bower, 458 Sturges avenue.

An exchange of seeds will be held at this meeting. Mrs. Bower will give a paper on "Horticulture." The topic, on "Ground Cover Plants," will be given by Mrs. L. E. Strain. Mrs. C. Lisle will be in charge of the flower arrangement. On April 10 Mrs. H. V. Henness will give a paper on "Plants to Grow in the Shade." Mrs. A. J. Barker will be hostess for the meeting and the flower arrangement will be in charge of Mrs. H. D. Bishop.

Dinner Meeting Held By Class

Members of the Loyal Daughters class of St. John's Evangelical church held a meeting Thursday evening in the church parlors. Dinner was served at 6:30 p. m. at a long table decorated with patriotic appointments. Group singing was conducted by Miss Clara Yeager, class teacher. Mrs. Margaret Hunt, president, conducted the business session.

During the evening the group observed the 30th anniversary of the class. Games and contests were diversions of the evening. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Elda Maglott, State street.

CHAPTER XXVII

When the music ended, they went back to the table, their hands joined.

Katherine said, her dark eyes warm and lovely, "We're making plans to take our vacations together, Harriet and Larry and Ralph and I. Can we count you two in? We're open for suggestions but don't mention the expensive places."

Harriet said quickly, "There are short cruises to Quebec that aren't expensive. I've never been out of the United States. I've never been on a ship. That's my suggestion."

"Sounds okay to me, honey," Larry said. Are you in, Steve—Judith?"

Stephen did not look at Judith. He was waiting for her to speak first, she thought. Quebec with her friends and her sister . . . Why not? It would be fun. Everything was fun tonight.

She said, "It sounds grand. I've always wanted to see Quebec, too."

Stephen's eyes quickened. "It's all right with me, too. Swell."

Ralph asked, "All settled then? Good! You win, Harriet. We ought to have a great time. We'll sail from New York . . ."

He was interrupted by Mary Anderson, daughter of a prominent attorney. Stephen had been seen frequently with her at football games and dances.

"Hello, everybody. I hate to break up a good party, but I wonder if I could borrow Stephen for a minute. There's a boy over at my table who said he played football with you. Against you, Steve." She put her arm through Stephen's and smiled upon Judith. "I won't keep him long."

* * *

Judith could feel sparks flying from her eyes. She said sharply, "Keep him as long as you like." An instant later she regretted her quick anger as Mary and Stephen walked across the ballroom to Mary's large party. Abruptly, to have made a sharp retort because Mary, who collected eligible men as she collected expensive hats, had been sweetly malicious. The girl annoyed her with her flaunting superiority and her attitude that any social function would be a failure if she were not there.

Ralph grinned. "If Katherine will let me, I'd like to dance with you, Judith."

Passing Mary's party, she saw Stephen so engrossed in being friendly that he did not see her. Mary was still hanging on to his arm.

Ralph said, "Stephen has made the grade." He looked at her. "Don't be a fool, my pet. Do you want all your good work to go for nothing? Can't you see she's after him?"

"It doesn't matter."

But deep inside she knew it mattered, that suddenly it mattered terribly.

Some hours later she was sitting beside Stephen in his car parked at the curb before her home. The moon was riding high in the sky.

"You'll have a nice day for golf tomorrow, Stephen."

He looked at her as though suddenly he disliked her intensely.

His voice was flat. "Yes, a good day for golf, a very fine day for golf." A few minutes later they were walking up the path to the porch. He forced a smile when he stepped inside. "All in? Good night. Call you."

Judith was too tired to think or feel. Halfway up the stairs, she paused wondering whether she was not unwilling to think and feel.

That week Emiley sent a snapshot of a fat, laughing baby and wrote, "I saw Phyllis in New York yesterday. We had tea. She's going to Reno in a few weeks and after her divorce she's going to marry a man years older than she—a man, Tim tells me, who has made a good bit of money and who is, Tim confessed, rather on the ordinary side. She met him on her honeymoon with Ames. Funny . . . I hope she'll be happy because I couldn't help feeling sorry for her. She's so empty inside and I'm afraid she'll never know what makes living really worth while . . . as I know it with Tim and my baby and my house and Tim's parents who are the proudest grandparents in the world. Our baby is the only baby in the world. Isn't it queer, Judith, that now that I can have a mink coat I don't really want one? Aren't you ever coming up to see us?"

It was not until the latter part of that week that Stephen called again.

* * *

Plans for the cruise to Quebec progressed nicely. Judith was remembering the last time she had planned a cruise and the clothes she had bought to wear. She was thinking of Max who came and went in her mind these placid summer days. For there were times when Max was as remote as a dream and she felt as one released; at other times her love and her longing were as acute as they had ever been. In those contradictory thoughts there was Stephen, a little aloof recently, whose voice over the telephone was neither precise nor demanding. It was as though the new feeling for him, a new importance to being with him, was obstructed by Max. She found herself looking at Stephen in a new way, at both the fineness and strength of his brown hands, at the greater determination in his jaw and at the clear blue eyes behind which were thoughts she did not entirely share. If she were remote with him during the weeks that preceded the cruise, it was because she found herself self-conscious with him and therefore immensely aware of him. Stephen mattered. He mattered terribly. But Max mattered, too. The two were in conflict and somehow she could not separate them.

It was Wednesday and they were sailing on Saturday. A certain Wednesday in July, 1940, another day always to be remembered. The evening was humid when Judith came home from the office and lingered on the front porch with her mother.

Isobel Barth, sitting in a white wicker chair, looked cool and pretty in an orchid linen dress.

"The children were never as excited about Christmas as Harriet is over this trip. I'll be glad when you get off, dear, and I know that nothing has happened to prevent your going."

Judith, sitting on the top step, her white hat in her hand, smiled at her mother.

"You sound wistful. Wouldn't you like to join us?"

"Not on a ship, dear, thank you. I was sea-sick once from a mere bay trip. Do you really think it's safe now with the war on?"

"Of course. These aren't troubled waters. It's absolutely safe."

"I'm glad to hear you say it. I think all of you need a holiday. Next year perhaps all our young men will be in training camps. Not Larry or Ralph possibly, but Stephen. He doesn't support his mother, does he?"

"No. His father left enough for that." Stephen in camp. She hadn't thought of that before. Stephen gone for a year?

Presently Nicholas, Judith's father, came. Big, jolly, handsome, he sat down beside Judith.

"All set for your trip?" he asked, "We get the kids, don't we, Isobel?"

"Nicholas! Kids! The children are staying with us, of course."

* * *

Judith smiled. Then she thought, "I'm contented . . . And once I thought I would never exchange my New York life for Clinton again. But here I sit on the porch in Clinton looking at mother's flowers in the little rock garden and at these old trees on the lawn and I'm contented. Am I not as alive as I was in New York? Clinton hasn't dulled my senses. I'm not enduring it here. I could leave, but I want to stay. I like it. I like to look at my mother and father. I like neighbors that speak to me and Mr. Overton who calls my father Nicholas and who goes to our church. I even care that Clinton is going to have the voting machines that Stephen told me all about and a new highway and a new art museum.

"I'd like to have something of mine in the new museum. I've thought of trying oils again. I care about all of it that I once left. Perhaps I was smug and arrogant and superior. Max said that people change. You change without knowing it for a long time, and when you look back at the person you were, you can't conceive of ever having been that person."

Bessie announced dinner and they went in. Some minutes later the telephone in the downstairs hall rang. Judith arose quickly and went to it. Stephen? But it was long distance. New York calling, and soon the connection was made.

"Hello."

"Max."

One syllable, but clear, precise and demanding . . . Max! Her eyes, darkened with excitement and she had to place her left hand on the wall to steady herself. A thousand questions sprang to her mind but she couldn't say anything.

* * *

In her mind she saw him as clearly as though he had been standing beside her . . . the strong features, the alert blue eyes, the fair hair, the high forehead and the mouth that was both sensitive and sensuous.

She said, "No!" and somehow, strangely, there was humor in it.

"Yes."

To break the tormenting silence she asked, "How are you, Max?"

"I'm all right. I discovered you weren't living in New York so naturally I called you there." A silence again before he chuckled. "That 'No' is yours . . . You never fail to delight me."

"I'm surprised that I'm polite to you. Perhaps I'm polite because you took me so suddenly."

"Perhaps I intended that."

"It's been a long time, Max."

"Too long." He sounded tired then. "But no matter what you have thought of me I have not been indifferent to you. I couldn't write — wouldn't write. Letters cause only misunderstandings. I was afraid you'd be away."

"I'm going away Saturday."

It was the gentle Max who said, "I have never wanted to hurt you or to be harsh with you but—but you are not going away Saturday, darling, except to New York . . . and to me. I am very humble where you are concerned, but you are not going away."

"I am." And yet she could see herself meeting Max in New York on Saturday.

He mentioned a certain hotel and the time . . . 4:30 in the afternoon. Then it was the gentle Max who spoke again, "Good-bye, dear."

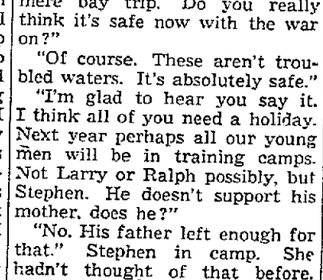
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A MESS OF POTTAGE

In almost every session of rubber bridge you can see somebody exemplify the old saw about selling your birthright for a mess of pottage. One of the most painful errors to watch is a player's refusal to lay down the setting trick against his opponent's game contract because he expects to set it an extra trick or two by doing something else. That is, it is painful to both the kibitzer and the player if the opponent then goes ahead and makes his contract.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

South probably had plenty of eggs for breakfast, or he would not have squeezed those two bids out of his hand. He had no license to make that contract, but did it by the grace of good luck and a defender's sad error.

The singleton spade K was good for a trick—as so often happens in No Trump contracts—because a small card of the suit was led by West. The only hopeful chance to make the contract, even after that good fortune, was to bring in the club suit by setting it up before the diamond K was knocked out as a re-entry. So South called the club A from dummy and then led the 9, prepared to overtake if it was not covered. East came in with the K, however, and three spade tricks followed quickly, giving the defenders their "book."

There sat West with the lead, and the heart A which he could lay down for the setting trick. But did he lead it? He did not. He reckoned that South would need one or more heart tricks for his game, also probably would lose a diamond trick to East with the K or J if he led the suit. So he fired back the diamond 7, whereupon four more tricks in clubs and three in diamonds gave South his contract.

For the sake of setting the contract an additional one or two tricks, worth 50 or 100 points. West not only gave up the 50 to be had by a one-trick set, but a game worth 400 points. In other words, he was betting about 450 to 50 or 100 very bad gambling.

* * *

Your Week-End Lesson.

If you fail to support your partner's major suit bid on your first chance to do so, and then bid it on your next turn after he has not rebid it, but has called another suit or No Trumps, how many cards of his suit should he consider you are showing him?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Not a chance in the world," Gus replied. "They couldn't see her in a thousand years. Didn't you see me draw the curtains?"

His answer shed sudden light on his action just before he left me on the couch he had improvised for me in the rear seat. He had pulled across each rear window the dark curtain specially made for it.

"That's good," the driver commented. "Now you two keep a lookout, one to the front and the other to the rear, to see if that other car is trying to trail us."

The driver made a number of turns at hair-breadth speed, and finally stopped at a point a hundred yards beyond a turn into a narrow road which seemed to lead to nowhere.

"Now boys," he said, "I'm going to turn and go back, and you get busy."

Tracks Obliterated.

Gus and the other man took brooms covered with cloths in their hands, and sprang down into the road. A remark from the driver illuminated the procedure.

"There's lots of tracks going this way," he said. "If you smear 'em right, they'll think we went along this road. And you see to it that you wipe off all my tracks going back, and until I get around the first curve of that narrow road."

"Okay," the two men said, but Gus waited for a reassuring word to me.

"I didn't want you to be scared," he said. "We've had to stop and go another way. Nothing to be alarmed about, but I thought you might wake up and get scared because I wasn't in the car. I'll be there again in less than five minutes."

"That's perfectly all right, Gus," I told him, but I was thankful that I had kept awake and overheard the plans of the men. Gus never would have told me of his own accord the real reason for this detour, but now, with knowledge of the other armored car and their conjectures concerning it, I would be in a position to get the information I needed before I should complete my journey to the Connecticut mountain home of Professor Walter Scott Diswell.

On one thing I was determined. I must be sure before I approached his door that my coming would not endanger Jack Bickett's old friend in any way.

I found my thoughts racing ahead of the backing car, as the men were sweeping away all trace of its tracks. How much did the men in that other armored car know of Professor Diswell, of his connection with Jack Bickett, and of my relation to them both?

As I tried to find answers to my own questions, my common sense struggled to remind me that there was only a remote chance.

But common sense lost against my intuitive conviction that the second armored car was a distinct menace to me and to the old professor, whom I wished to visit and consult about the page of cuneiform characters written by Jack Bickett, which Mary had managed to abstract from Stephen Redfield's illegal possession of it.

This conviction was bolstered by the evident belief of our men that the second armored car was a menace to us. Raised on my elbow, I could see Gus and the second man working frantically to obliterate every trace of the tire tracks.

The car soon stopped backing and turned into the narrow road, Gus and the other man still obliterating its tracks, and came to a stop again beyond the second curve, wholly invisible from the other road.

"There," Gus said, climbing aboard, "that ought to do the trick. They'll never be able to trace us now."

Mansfield Meets Ashland for District Cage Title

Sport Podge by REX HESS

When a high-flying, acrobatic, stunting pilot sets his kite down for the day, where does he go for recreation?

Straight down the alley.

You don't think so? Just ask Bob Peters, advanced and cross-country flying instructor at the Harrington Air Service.

When Peters gets through his day's chores of turns and dives and loop-the-loops for brave, and gasping, student fliers, he heads straight for the alleys, and spends the rest of the day trying valiantly to stay out of the gutter.

* * *

Peters has set something of a record for open bowling this winter at Colony alleys, marking up 400 lines in ten weeks, in addition to a few turns on the lanes in the Club league with the Schoolmasters.

When Peters came to Mansfield last fall he knew no one here, and while he admits he doesn't mind being alone up in the air, he doesn't care for too much of the same on the ground. So he took up bowling.

* * *

Question before the house: When a flyer takes up kegling, and his ball finds the gutter, how about that? Downdraft!

* * *

Peters has been something of a lone wolf of the alleys at that. Most of his 400 lines in 10 weeks have been rolled alone. He says he took up bowling "for exercise, although teaching up to six hours of acrobatics daily is a bit on the strenuous side itself."

He had never bowled before coming here, although he had rolled some duckpins while flying in South Carolina. Now he counts that day lost when he doesn't boost his season's average, which has now reached 148.

* * *

Every day he makes a bee-line from the flying field straight to the alleys to roll 10 or 15 lines, and has hit from 157 to 172 in one day. His highest score is 226, while he's been over 200 seven times. Not bad for rolling the first ball in mid-December.

He admits that he bowls better alone than in competition. His Club league average is 140.

* * *

Maybe we can talk the Club leaguers into easing up on their bench work. (Bench work—official A. B. C. slang for heckling.)

NEW ORLEANS —(INS)— Illinois, champions of the Big Ten, will play Kentucky, the southeastern conference champions, and Dartmouth, champions of the Ivy league, will meet Penn State, mid-Atlantic champions, in the opening rounds of the eastern play-offs of the NCAA basketball championship contests at New Orleans, March 20, it was announced.

The title match will be played March 21 and the winner will meet the title-holder of the western play-offs, conducted in Kansas City at the same time, for the national championship.

Gil Dodds Races In Star Role

Ex-Ashland Collegian Is Feature Attraction.

By JACK GUENTHER

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Until two weeks ago Gilbert Dodds was just the boy who chased Greg Rice home in two-mile races at indoor track meets. He was well enough known within his trade, but to the guy in the grandstand he was no more than a colorful also ran. Gil always put up a great battle, but when he faced Rice he also always was beaten.

Tonight the same Mr. Dodds appears in Madison Square Garden as the premiere attraction of the Knights of Columbus meet which closes the indoor scanty-pants season. He won't be running for second tonight because he won't be facing the inimitable Mr. Rice. Instead, he will be going against Leslie MacMitchell in the mile and is New York excited?

* * *

How did it all happen? Why, rather simply. The men schooled in such things have known for months that there was nothing wrong with Dodds—except Rice. At any other time in history, Gil would have been a champion. His time for two miles is five seconds lower than that of Nurmi. But, in case you don't know, Rice isn't Nurmi—he is Whirlaway on wheels.

* * *

So two weeks ago, in the national AAU championships, Gil gave up the two-mile run for one evening and decided to have a fling at the mile and MacMitchell. The NYU boy had a long victory streak and is—or was—the best miler in the world, but nobody remembered to tell that to Dodds. So, Gil just upped and broke the streak by beating MacMitchell.

That is when the citizens of Nebraska, Ohio and Massachusetts began their hectic clamoring for prior rights to this bespectacled son of a minister who is now studying to follow in his father's foot steps as well as in those of Rice et al. Gil was born in Nebraska, attended Ashland college in Ohio and now runs for the Boston A. A. in Massachusetts.

* * *

I don't intend to enter this newest of the wars between the states. Instead, I'm busy trying to pick a winner in this rematch that has stood the town on its right ear. That is a tricky matter, too. The time of their first meeting was 4:08.7 against a Madison Square Garden record of 4:07.4. It was so fast you can't tell if Dodds was just too good or MacMitchell just too cocky.

* * *

Tonight that record may be broken, because there will be plenty of running room. The only other starters in the field are Gene Venzke and Jim Rafferty and neither should be a factor unless Dodds and MacMitchell decide to play tic-tac-toe instead of getting out and setting a fast clip. You never can tell about a race between two really tricky boys, but I pick MacMitchell to win.

Cliff Forsythe Paces Steel Loop

Cliff Forsythe paced the Empire bowling league at Colony alleys last night with a 525 total on games of 160-169-176. Zacharias beat him out for high game by one pin with 177, while Schmidt and Lehman also had 176 games.

LOOKS FOR PUNCH

TAMPA, Fla — (INS) — With his Cincinnati Reds meeting the Detroit Tigers today, Manager Bill McKechnie tried desperately to evolve some method of adding that extra punch needed to win ball games. The Reds lost to the world champion New York Yankees yesterday, 2 to 0, making eight bingles—three more than the Yanks got—good for exactly no runs.

JOINS DODGERS

DAYTONA BEACH — (INS) — Billy Sullivan, 31-year-old veteran catcher pointed the Brooklyn Dodger family today as second string receiver. Sullivan was purchased from the Detroit Tigers for a reported $17,500.

Tivener Turns Alley Rarity

Has All Five Marks In Five Straight Frames.

Lee Tivener treated himself to a bowling rarity last night in the Westinghouse "D" league at Colony alleys, getting all five marks n the first five frames of his third game.

Consecutively he got a miss, a foul, a spare, a split and a strike.

C. ross rolled more conventionally to turn in a really hot "D" league high total of 620 on games of 171-225-224. J. Miller tied him for high game at 225.

Bucks, Wolves Battle In Tank

Favored In Meet For Big Ten Swim Title.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. —(INS)— The Big Ten swimming championships tonight shape up as a dual meet between the University of Michigan and Ohio State.

* * *

The Wolverines, seeking their fourth straight triumph, qualified 12 swimmers and two relay teams in last night's time trials. Ohio State, which in 1938 was the last team to outrace Michigan in a conference meet, also qualified two relay teams and 13 mermen for tonight's finals.

* * *

Michigan paced the field in four events, the Buckeyes in three.

Northwestern produced a real threat in the 50 and 100 yard free style events in Robert Amundsen, who won both events in 53 and 23.6 seconds respectively.

Ohio's Jack Ryan churned the waters in comparatively slow time to come off best in the 220- and 440-yard free styles. Richard Diedly of Michigan turned in the flashy time of 1:38-3 in the backstroke to lead Mark Follansbee of Ohio State by a fifth of a second.

M. Schmidt Leads Dominion Girls

M. Schmidt took top honors in the Dominion girls' bowling league at Colony alleys last night by one pin with a 413 total, while Bentle had 412. Schmidt's 167 was high game.

Bowling's Too Slow for Paul

Also Proves Too Tough For Ohio's Mr. Brown.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— This game of bowling is too slow for Paul E. Brown, Ohio State university grid coach, but it has plenty of zip for the pin boy who jumps for his life every time the diminutive football wizard slams one down the alley.

Brown, who drew an embassassing three game total of 402 on Friday the 13th, just couldn't wait his turn in the ABC tourney.

Before the pins got their balance after being racked up, Brown let fly and the pin setter, with a speed that Brown tries to develop in his halfbacks, dived for safety.

Twice the coach almost trapped the pin boy.

Brown was hotter than a firecracker at the start, knocking off a spare and a strike but a 4-5-7 split on the next try slowed him down. This marked both the beginning and the end. Next came two straight fouls and thereafter he looked worse than a ninth string quarterback.

Buckeye basketball coach Harold G. Olsen, on hand to watch his associate, commented after the first foul:

"You should get two free throws on that, Paul."

But to get back to what statistics there were, Brown finished his first game with 127—low for the team.

He followed that with a pin-plastering 139, then dropped to a disappointing 136, the latter score just good enough to nose out a sports writer on the next alley and win Brown a malted milk.

Keglers Shoot At New Marks

Team, Doubles, And All-Events Change.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Bowlers in the 42nd annual American Bowling Congress today had three new leading marks to shoot at—a 2840 in the team event; a 1227 in the doubles, and an 1889 score in the all-events.

The Pastime Athletic club of Syracuse, N. Y., took over control of the five-man standings with a smashing 2840 total, hung up on games of 932, 948 and 960. Meanwhile, the Johns-Manville squad of Chicago was smacking down 2777 pins for third place on games of 918, 943 and 916.

The doubles lead went to Ed and Walter Dickerson, brothers of Chester, Pa., who tallied series of 520 and a booming 707 for their 1227, which demoted to second place by eight pins the previous leaders, Bert Stanger and Ed Westbrook, of St. Louis.

The 707 series of 40-year-old Ed was high for the tourney to date, and was amassed on games of 249, 235 and 223.

The all-events lead changed twice during the day. First a Lima, O., team of Dick Dobbs and Gerald Line took eighth place in the doubles on a 1219, thanks to the first 700 or better score of the tourney, Hobbs' 703. The score gave him the all-events lead at 1877, 47 points better than the previous leader, Howard Dammel of Cincinnati.

Hobbs' all-events lead was short-lived, however, as Frank Schnaitman, another Chester, Pa., kegler, took over shortly afterwards with an 1889, when he smacked down 666 pins in his singles effort. This gave him fifth spot in the singles and added to his 610 effort in the doubles and his 583 in the team event to give him his all-events leadership.

As a result of the day's firing, only the 690 posted by Vincent Gries, of Elizabeth, N. J., to give him the singles lead, survived as a mark to shoot at.

Mounts Put Two On Team

Conference Coaches Pick All-Star Cagers.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio conference coaches, sports writers and officials voted stars from five colleges to the honorary all-league basketball team selected today for the Associated Press.

With the Associated Press acting only as a vote-counter, the first team berths went to Forwards Charles Joachim of Mt. Union and Edward (Ike) McFadden of Denison; the center position to Bob Geist, Capital's point-gathering machine, and the guard spots to Bob Holtsclaw of Muskingum and Carl Kate of Wooster.

* * *

Mt. Union, in racing to its second consecutive state and conference championships, placed Stan Baughman on the second team at center, giving the Purple Raiders the only two-man representation among the first ten.

* * *

Second string forwards selected were Price of Kent State and Fisher of Wittenberg, both high-scoring stars, while Oberst of Baldwin-Wallace and Shaffer of Ohio Northern won the guard positions.

Toledo's mighty team, having only three conference games to its credit, was not considered in the all-conference selections, but the other 19 schools participated.

Joachim, undoubtedly the state's finest forward, led the balloting by a mile or so and took the honorary captaincy, while Oberst topped the second team. The Mounts won four of the 25 squad positions, and Wooster and Ohio Northern three each.

The selections:

First Team—	P
Joachim, Mt. Union	F
McFadden, Denison	F
Geist, Capital	C
Holtsclaw, Muskingum	G
Kate, Wooster	G
Seconds Team—	P
Price, Kent State	F
Fisher, Witenber	F
Baugman, Mt. Union	C
Oberst, Baldwin-Wallace	G
Shaffer, Ohio Northern	G

Honorable Mention.

Forwards: Zuercher, Findlay; Katherman, Wooster; Malone, Ohio Northern; Lynch, Kenyon; Schlott, Mt. Union; Francenconi, John Carroll.

Centers: Eicher, Wooster; McDowell, Muskingum; Smith, Kenyon.

Guards: DeWitt, Mt. Union; Sproull, Wooster; Adams, Baldwin-Wallace; Feduniak, Kent State; Cotterman, Ohio Northern; Addessi, Oberlin.

CONNIE CHUCKLES

ANAHEIN, CAL—(INS)—Connie Mack, that venerable gent who believes in holding his boys down for the crucial games, today chuckled with glee at the Athletics' surprising 12 to 6 win over the hapless Pittsburgh Pirates. Elmer Valo, trying out for left field, helped the Athletics overcome a two-run lead by scoring four safeties in five times at bat.

START SERIES

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—The first of a series of 14 exhibition games between the Chicago Cubs and the Chicago White Sox went into the records today with the Cubs on the long, extremely long, end of the score. The Cubs trounced the Sox 13 to 3 in the opener yesterday.

Hubbell said his curve was standing up though, and that in spite of his 39 years, his arm feels better this year than it has for several seasons.

Tygers Talk Way to Victory Over Fremont

Dietzel Stars In 45-35 Victory Over Little Giant Rivals

By REX HESS, News-Journal Sports Editor.

IT'S MANSFIELD vs. Ashland tonight for the championship of the Sandusky district Class A high school basketball tournament.

Mansfield's Tygers walloped Fremont's Little Giants last night 45-35 and the A's easily trimmed Tiffin Columbian 46-24. Tonight's championship game is booked at 8:15, and the winner will represent the district in the Findlay regional tournament next Friday and Saturday.

Coach Vern Hoffman turned loose his debating society on the Little Giants last night, and the conversational needle which the Tygers injected into the fray talked the frenzied Fremonts right out of the ball game.

* * *

So irked were the Giants at the running line of patter pulled by the talkative Tygers, that by the time the fourth and deciding period rolled around, Fremont was making intentional fouls, and departing from the combat in a parade.

* * *

Hall and Bingman fouled out, and little Snooks Jenkins, lightning streak forward, was handicapped with three personals.

Meanwhile the Tygers, watching their deportment with such care they often permitted open shots by their rivals rather than take a chance on fouling, heard the foul whistle blast only eight times, and three of the fouls called were highly questionable.

It was a typical Mansfield-Fremont ball game, close all the way, right down to the stretch drive. There the script was changed from the routine of the preceding two years.

* * *

In 1940 Fremont led by 10 points going into the last quarter, frittered the lead away, and Mansfield tied it up and won on Gene Miller's overtime bucket, 38-37.

ASHLAND TO BE HOST TO WAYNE GROUP MONDAY

Volunteer Fire Association to Convene For Monthly Session.

ASHLAND—There will be between 125 and 140 firemen at Ashland's fire station Monday night when the local Volunteer department will be host to the Wayne county Volunteer Firemen's association.

There are 65 members in the Ashland department and between 65 and 75 are expected to attend from the association.

Fire chiefs from Plum Brook and Sandusky will speak. The meeting will be held in the firemen's rooms above the fire station.

The Ashland Volunteer Firemen's association has been a member of the Wayne County association since its organization two years ago. Other members of the association are Wooster and Volunteer Firemen's organizations in Wayne county. The association meets the third Monday of every month. Fire Chief Paul Soles is in charge of arrangements for the Ashland meeting.

Judge C. H. Huston of Richland county common pleas court was assigned to Ashland common pleas court yesterday to hear testimony in the suit of Ora P. Lewis vs. Dale D. Hiner.

The fifth district court of appeals which will be in session here next Tuesday has been assigned three cases for review. Two are from probate court: B. J. Rush, administrator of the estate of Anna E. Hipp vs. John Hipp; and Clyde O. and Fay E. Scobey vs. H. W. Fair, administrator of the estate of Elma Fair. The third case, Austin Moherman vs. Harry Donley is an appeal from common pleas court on questions of law.

Joseph F. Woltz has been appointed special deputy sheriff by Ashland common pleas court for duty at the Ohio Fuel Gas company.

ANNIVERSARY

Shelby Scout Troop to Mark 7th Birthday Sunday.

SHELBY — The annual Scout anniversary service for Troop 3 of the Boy Scouts will be held Sunday at First Methodist church. The service was postponed from the anniversary week because of other activities.

Dr. Arthur Staples, pastor of the church, will deliver a special sermon. Following the morning worship, the boys will be guests of Good Fellowship class for a birthday party.

The troop was started in the church during the pastorate of Rev. G. W. Peters, who went to Warren several years ago. It is seven years old this year. Starting with only a handful of members, the troop has grown until now it is the largest Boy Scout group in this city, having a membership of some 50 registered scouts.

Miss June Darling of Ashland, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Darling here, and with them attended the golden wedding anniversary of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin M. Darling at Ankneytown, Sunday. The celebration was held in the Grange hall at Ankneytown, and 47 relatives and close friends ate a dinner together, and afternoon callers totaled the entire assemblage to 95 persons. A son, Lake Darling of Lakeville, and cashier of the Monitor bank of Big Prairie, acted as toastmaster. Two huge cakes graced the table, and in one of these cakes was concealed a tiny silver music box which played a wedding march as the cake was being cut. These cakes were served to the entire crowd along with bricks of ice cream decorated with a gold star, and the numerals 50. Everybody had a good time and this worthy couple received many gifts, anniversary greetings and flowers.

PUPILS ATTEND CLASSES TODAY

Tiro School Adopts Plan to Shorten Term In Effort To Aid Farmers.

SHELBY—Regular classes are being held today at Tiro Consolidated school as officials put into operation a plan to shorten the school term a week so classes can dismiss for summer vacation on May 15, Supt. A. C. Wilson said.

Classes will be held on March 28, and the annual spring vacation will be cancelled this year.

Supt. Wilson pointed out that students, who are mostly from rural areas, will be able to assist on farms sooner this year with the earlier closing date. Most of the farms in the area need more help which is not available since many residents have gone to work in nearby defense industries.

Reds Claim 14,000 Germans Slain

MOSCOW — (INS) — Advancing Russian troops captured 84 inhabited places and killed 14,000 Germans on the northwestern front between Feb. 22 and March 10, a special announcement by the Soviet high command said today.

The sector referred to was the Staraya Russa region, where the 16th German army is trapped by encircling Russian troops.

A supplementary war bulletin added that on one sector of the northwestern front Soviet forces reoccupied seven more localities and killed 3,310 Germans.

On another sector, it was stated, a Russia ski detachment captured three localities and killed 1,500 enemy troops.

On the southwestern front 1,500 Germans were wiped out in a single day of fighting, the announcement added.

Announcement of this shattering blow to Adolf Hitler's legions came as the Russians stepped up the tempo of their offensive on other fronts.

time in its history from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. The office will not be open in the evening.

Postmaster Herman E. Homberger said that the money order window would remain closed Sunday and that Monday the window would observe the customary closing hour of 5:30 p. m.

Income tax returns filed yesterday made history for the Mansfield postoffice money order department. Postmaster Homberger said that 632 money orders were issued against the average daily number of between 300 and 400.

Partial and full payment of income taxes have rocketed money order receipts approximately $90,000 above the monthly average, the postmaster said. Last month the receipts amounted to $150,000 in contrast to the normal receipts of $60,000.

Sounds Warning To Dairymen on Extended Debts

Dr. E. E. Heizer, dairy specialist at the University of Wisconsin, who spoke yesterday in Mansfield warned dairy farmers against going heavily into debt to produce more milk and butter because war conditions bring better prices.

Because farmers don't know what may be ahead of them after the war is over, Dr. Heizer said it was "very unwise" to invest heavily now in more cattle and dairy equipment to take adavntage of high prices.

He urged farmers to increase their milk and butter production as requested by the department of agriculture by more efficient and economical dairy methods.

Certificates of recognition were awarded to 11 Ohio Guernsey breeders by N. H. Hill, manager of Halfred farms, Chagrin Falls. Seven of the awards went to Roger A. Black of Raemelton farm for outstanding production records of Guernsey cattle on the farm. He received more awards than any other Guernsey breeder. A certificate also went to Ralph H. Hulit of Mansfield.

Special recognition was paid Raemelton Duchess, a cow in the Raemelton herd, which has a lifetime production of 114,668 pounds of milk and 5,735 pounds of butterfat.

ORDINANCE NO. 42-52

By Mr. Anderson:

An Ordinance regulating the operation of gasoline filling stations in the City of Mansfield and declaring an emergency.

Be It Ordained By The Council Of The City Of Mansfield, State Of Ohio:

Section 1. No person, firm, corporation or employee thereof shall operate a retail gasoline filling station, or gasoline pump, within the City of Mansfield, so as to be open for business for the purpose of selling for consumption, gasoline, oil, grease or other articles, or materials incidental to the operation of a motor vehicle, except during the following hours:

On week days from 7 A. M. to 7 P. M.

On Sundays from 7 A. M. to 1 P. M.

Section 2. No person within the City of Mansfield shall sell, transfer or give away, for consumption any gasoline, oil, grease or other product, or article incidental to the operation of a motor vehicle, except during the following hours:

On week days from 7 A. M. to 7 P. M.

On Sundays from 7 A. M. to 1 P. M.

Section 3. That in order to provide gasoline, oil, grease, or other incidental materials or services in the event of an emergency, one filling station or more, suitably located near the center of said City, must remain open for the sole purpose of supplying such emergency needs during the hours prohibited in Section 1 and Section 2 of this Ordinance, and the restrictions of said Section 1 and Section 2 above shall not apply for the purpose of such emergency needs.

The Chief of Police shall maintain a schedule designating the retail gasoline establishments which shall remain open for such emergency needs during the hours from 7 P. M. to 7 A. M. on weeks days and from 1 P. M. Sunday to 7 A. M. on Monday.

Retail gasoline establishments shall be designated for each week of the year commencing on Sunday and the stations so designated shall maintain an employee on the premises for such emergency needs.

The Chief of Police shall designate each week those retail gasoline establishments which are to remain open for such emergency needs, and said Chief shall be the final authority for the purpose of such designations. A schedule of the retail gasoline establishments so designated for emergency business for the current week shall be conspicuously posted at the Police Station in the City Building.

Any person, firm or corporation in need of gasoline, oil, grease or other materials for the operation of a motor vehicle in case of an emergency arising during the closing hours set forth above may apply to the Police Station for a written permit for the purchase of such necessities. The permit must state the reason for the emergency and carry the signature of the officer giving the same. No gasoline, oil, grease, or article incidental to the operation of a motor vehicle shall be sold during the restricted hours by the attendant at the retail gasoline establishments so designated to remain open, except upon such written permit.

The Chief of Police shall be the final authority in the matter of granting permits and may make rules to govern the issuance thereof.

Section 4. Any person violating the terms of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not to exceed $100.00 and costs of prosecution.

Section 5. Any Section of this Ordinance found to be unconstitutional shall in no way invalidate the remaining sections.

Section 6. This Ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure for the immediate preservation of the public welfare and shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage.

Passed March 10, 1942.

Signed: HOWARD G. MILLER, President of Council.

Attest: R. R. BLACK, Clerk of Council.

Approved: W. J. LOCKE, Mayor.

MARKET KEEPS IRREGULARLY HIGHER TREND

Uninspiring Business and War News Fails to Stop Bidders.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market maintained its irregularly higher trend today in the face of uninspiring war and business news. Dealings were sluggish most of the time.

Attracting small buying were American Telephone, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, American Airlines, Pepsi-Cola, Standard Oil (NJ), International Nickel, Phelps Dodge and J. C. Penney.

Allied Chemical dipped to a new low for the past year or so. Backward were North American, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Chrysler, Johns-Manville, American Can and Kennecott.

A lag in some lines of industry was indicated to market followers by the compilation of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association disclosing for the week ended March 7 decreases from the preceding week of 3 per cent in production, 7 per cent in shipments and 2 per cent in new orders.

Not so pleasing to the financial sector was the announcement of sharp boosts in cargo was risk insurance rates along the Atlantic coast of the western hemisphere.

MOTHER DENIES HIS TESTIMONY

Electrifies Court with Statement in Lima Murder Trial.

LIMA—(INS)—Closing arguments will be heard Monday in the second degree murder trial of James Maloney, 38, accused of the silk stocking strangling of Mrs. Goldie Siler, attendant at the Lima state hospital for criminal insane, whose nearly-nude body was found on the hospital grounds.

The defense rested its case late Friday after Maloney had been on the stand for seven hours. The courtroom was electrified when his mother contradicted his testimony.

The man aid he had never seen a handkerchief figuring in the case, but his mother later identified it as one she had given him.

TWO JAILED

Pair Charged With Robbing Ohio Postoffice of $1,000.

ASHLAND, Ky — (AP) — Postal Inspector W. L. Ferrell jailed two men at Cattletsburg on charges of robbing the postoffice at Amelia, O., east of Cincinnati, of $1,037 March 5. The men were listed as Ralph M. Bishop, 22, of Ashland, and William D. Lee of Cattletsburg.

Cash, stamps and defense certificates were taken from the postoffice.

SUSPECT HELD

Quizzed In Fatal Beating of Ohio Farmer.

COLUMBUS — (INS)—A suspect whose name was withheld was being questioned today in the death of Victor Wilson, 75-year-old farmer of near Groveport, who was fatally beaten Sunday night at the door of the home where he lived alone.

Two others have been questioned and released, sheriff's deputies reported.

DECLARE HITLER KILLED OWN ACE

Berne Reports Say Moelders Ordered Shot Down After Tiff With Fuehrer.

an abbess in a Muenster convent, had been forced to leave that province after receiving brutal treatment from the Nazis, it was said.

When Moelders first learned of the S. S. atrocities, he was fighting on the eastern front, according to the report.

Infuriated, Moelders left his squadron and went to Hitler's Russian headquarters, demanding an audience with the fuehrer. Hitler refused to see the colonel, but sent out a stinging rebuke to him for leaving his squadron.

Then occurred the dramatic incident probably unparalleled in the war. On the breast of the young flier's uniform was pinned the knight's cross of the iron cross, highest military honor awarded by the German government. Attached was the oak leaf with swords in diamonds, conferred by Hitler a year earlier when Moelders had shot down his 40th enemy plane of the second world war.

The great ace ripped the decoration from his uniform, handed it to a Hitler aide and ordered it returned to the fuehrer with the information that he would not accept an award from a state which treated its citizens in brutal fashion.

He then returned to his plane and took off for Breslau. In a fit of anger, Hitler cabeled the German air field at Breslau that a Soviet plane disguised as a Nazi fighter and bearing decorations similar to those of Moelders' plane was planning to land at the base in approximately one hour. The plane should be shot down while landing, the fuehrer ordered.

Moelders zoomed in for the landing. The Breslau anti-aircraft batteries opened fire. The man who had shot down more enemy planes than even the great Baron Von Richtofen crashed in flames, a victim of his respect for the servants of a church in a land where religious freedom cannot be tolerated.

Although the "accident" version was the official one, reliable sources in Berne estimate that 75 per cent of the German people have heard—and believe—the story that Moelders died because of the fuehrer's order.

OPPOSE TAX BAN ON WAR GOODS

Officials Charge State Would Lose 25 Million Annually.

COLUMBUS —(UP)— State and municipal officials today marshaled sentiment against proposed federal legislation which would bar the states from taxing goods and services which go into production of war materials.

State tax commissioner William S. Evatt said in telegrams to all Ohio congressmen that the proposed measure would cost Ohio more than $25,000,000 a year with approximately $11,000,000 of the loss falling on local governments.

Evatt met with representatives of the state highway department, the city of Columbus, the Ohio Good Roads federation, the County Commissioners' association, the Ohio Manufacturers' association and the Ohio Chamber of Commerce to help organize a protest against the legislation.

GOOD EXCUSE!

Panhandler Says He Needed Money To Pay Income Tax.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A man on crutches stumped before Magistrate Ambrose J. Haddock in night court today charged with attempted panhandling on broadway "I was a little short of money, your honor," Reinhold Hackbarth, 44, the defendant explained, "and I wanted to get enough to pay my income tax."

Magistrate Haddock suspended sentence after Hackbarth explained that he had been unable to work as a lathe worker recently because he had broken his leg.

THEATERS

War-Time Comedy.

Performing "Hamlet" pales for a froup of actors when the Nazis invade Poland and they are forced to pose as German personalities in the melodramatic comedy, "To Be Or Not To Be," starring Jack Benny. Showing at the Ohio theater the picture, which is the last in which Carole Lombard appeared before her death, depicts the riotous events in which Benny and his fellow actors become involved with the occupation of the Nazis. Plots and counter-plots become so thick that the troupe occasionally is forced to stop and think just what characters they are playing and why. Robert Stack and Lionel Atwill are in the cast.

* * *

Theatrical Romance.

When the ex-husband of a Broadway actress discovers that the latter is to be married again he engineers a party of gigantic proportions to interrupt the honeymoon in "Bedtime Story," the Madison attraction, co-starring Fredric March and Loretta Young. March has the role of the playwright husband who doesn't like to see his former wife marry such a stuffed-shirt as Allyn Joslyn portrays in the picture. Eve Arden, Robert Benchley and Helen Westley are in the film. "Blondie Goes to College," with Penny Singleton is the second picture.

* * *

Absorbing Drama.

The simple story of a Welsh family, their loves and tragedies, is depicted in "How Green Was My Valley," showing at the Ritz. Donald Crisp and Sara Allgood top the cast as the heads of the family. Walter Pidgeon and Roddy McDowell are other players. "South of Sante Fe," Roy Rogers' picture is the co-attraction.

* * *

Comedy With Music.

Judy Canova, the screen star who shattered a few records when she sold $80,000 worth of defense bonds in 20 minutes in Charlotte, N. C., has the starring role in "Sleepytime Gal," the Park feature. The singing and dancing comedian plays a Miami resort kitchen mechanic who becomes a radio star overnight when a bellhop realizes her possibilities. Tom Brown and Mildred Coles furnish the romantic interest and Billy Gilbert, Fritz Feld and Skinnay Ennis are in the cast. John Howard's "The Man Who Returned to Life," shares the bill.

* * *

Detective Story.

George Sanders is featured in a detective yarn, "The Gay Falcon," today and Sunday. Wendy Barrie plays opposite Sanders. Cesar Romero appears in the second picture, "Lucky Cisco Kid," at the Majestic.

U. S. Youngsters Havs a Right Healthy Appetite

AMHERST, Mass. — (INS) — There is nothing wrong with the appetite of the American youngster if figures are right and figures don't lie.

When 115,000 pupils in Massachusetts public and parochial schools can consume about 43 million pounds of food a month, then it seems needless to worry about the nation's program to build healthier people for our defense.

Broken down to the lowest common denominator, the Surplus Marketing administration, which reaches the more than 115,000 youngsters by the school program, shows that one child eats a little over 373 pounds of food a month, or 12 plus pounds a day.

The food for this school lunch program, says John F. Conaboy, district supervisor for New England, is drawn from huge stock piles now being made available through the food-for-freedom production efforts of Bay State farmers and others throughout the nation.

TILLIE THE TOILER

YOU MUST UNDERSTAND THAT ARMY OFFICERS JUST DON'T TRANSFER SOLDIERS AT THE REQUEST OF CIVILIANS
I'M SORRY COLONEL
GRRR
3-9
I ALMOST RESENT YOUR ACCUSATION
WELL I DO RESENT YOUR ACCUSING ME OF MAKING SUCH A REQUEST
MAC
AS A MATTER OF FACT PRIVATE PERRY WAS TRANSFERRED AT HIS OWN REQUEST
WELL, ER
MERCY THEN DAVE WANTED TO BE TRANSFERRED TO SOME PLACE WHERE I WASN'T
RUSS STOVER
BUT PRIVATE PERRY WAS TRYING TO SERVE HIS COUNTRY_HE VOLUNTEERED FOR SOME SPECIAL DUTY THE NATURE OF WHICH I CAN'T REVEAL
OHHH
3-10
THAT WAS THREE MONTHS AGO_HIS ORDERS JUST CAME
THREE MONTHS' THAT WAS BEFORE HE KNEW ME_THEN HE WASN'T TRYING TO GET AWAY FROM ME_I'VE FALSELY SUSPECTED HIM
CERTAINLY NOT AND YOU'VE FALSELY SUSPECTED ME_I DIDN'T ASK COL TRIGSBY TO HAVE PRIVATE PERRY TRANSFERRED BASCOM
I CAN'T FORGIVE SUCH AN ACCUSATION_I'M NO LONGER YOUR SERVANT
BASCOM
RUSS STOVER
BUT MY DEAR YOUNG LADY TELL ME WHY ON EARTH YOU SHOULD HAVE THOUGHT I WOULD TRANSFER A SOLDIER AT A CIVILIAN'S REQUEST
YOU SEE, I FOUND A NOTE_I'LL GET IT
HMMM
YOU SEE IT SAYS "BE PATIENT, YOU OLD FUSSBUDGET" SO I THOUGHT YOU AND BASCOM WERE CLOSE FRIENDS AND—
SO YOU'RE THE KIND OF YOUNG LADY WHO READS OTHER PEOPLE'S LETTERS' I GUESS THAT'S ALL GOOD DAY
BUT COLONEL—
3-11
OH, DEAR, DAVE'S GONE, AND MAC AND BASCOM ARE PEEVED_EVEN THE COLONEL'S MAD_WHY DIDN'T I TELL HIM, I COULDN'T HELP SEEING THAT NOTE?
RUSS STOVER
SO I'VE GOT MAC AND BASCOM AND COL. TRIGSBY ALL DISGUSTED WITH ME
YOU'LL HAVE TO APOLOGIZE ALL AROUND_HERE COMES MAC_I'LL GET OUT
MAC, I'VE BEEN HORRIBLY WRONG IN SUSPECTING THAT YOU GOT DAVE TRANSFERRED_YOU'LL FORGIVE ME, WON'T YOU?
SURE, TILLIE_YOU WERE UPSET
AND, MAC, YOU'LL HELP ME LOCATE BASCOM? I CAN'T FIND OUT WHERE HE'S GONE
HUH?
3-12
I MIGHT HAVE KNOWN THERE'D BE A CATCH IN IT_TRY THE MISSING PERSONS BUREAU. GRRR_
MAC
RUSS STOVER
WELL, MAC'S STILL PEEVED_AND I DO WISH BASCOM HADN'T LEFT BEFORE I HAD A CHANCE TO EXPLAIN
AW, FORGET 'EM THEY'RE ONLY CIVILIANS
I'M ALL FOR THE ARMED FORCES THESE DAYS_NOW LOOK AT ALL THOSE SAILORS WELL, YOU JUST CAN'T STEP UP AND SAY, "LET'S GET ACQUAINTED"
3-13
HERE COMES ONE NOW WHO LOOKS AS IF HE'D LIKE TO GET ACQUAINTED
IGNORE HIM, WE'VE GOT TOO GOOD MANNERS TO SPEAK TO HIM
MISS JONES
BASCOM
RUSS STOVER
I'LL LEAVE YOU TO YOURSELVES_S'LONG
BASCOM, I COULDN'T HELP SEEING YOUR NOTE FROM COL. TRIGSBY_THAT MADE ME SUSPECT YOU'D GOT HIM TO TRANSFER DAVE OH, THAT'
COL. TRIGSBY WAS ONLY AN OLD FRIEND TRYING TO GET PAPERS TO PROVE I WAS A CITIZEN SO I COULD ENLIST_I WAS BORN ABROAD, BUT OF AMERICAN PARENTS
OH
BASCOM, I'M PROUD OF YOU, YOUR PAY AS MY SERVANT WILL CONTINUE FOR THE DURATION
THAT'S WONDERFUL OF YOU, MISS JONES
3-14
AND, TILLIE, I'M PROUD OF YOU_THAT WAS GENEROUS_LET'S ALL BE FRIENDS AND GIVE BASCOM A FAREWELL PARTY
RUSS STOVER

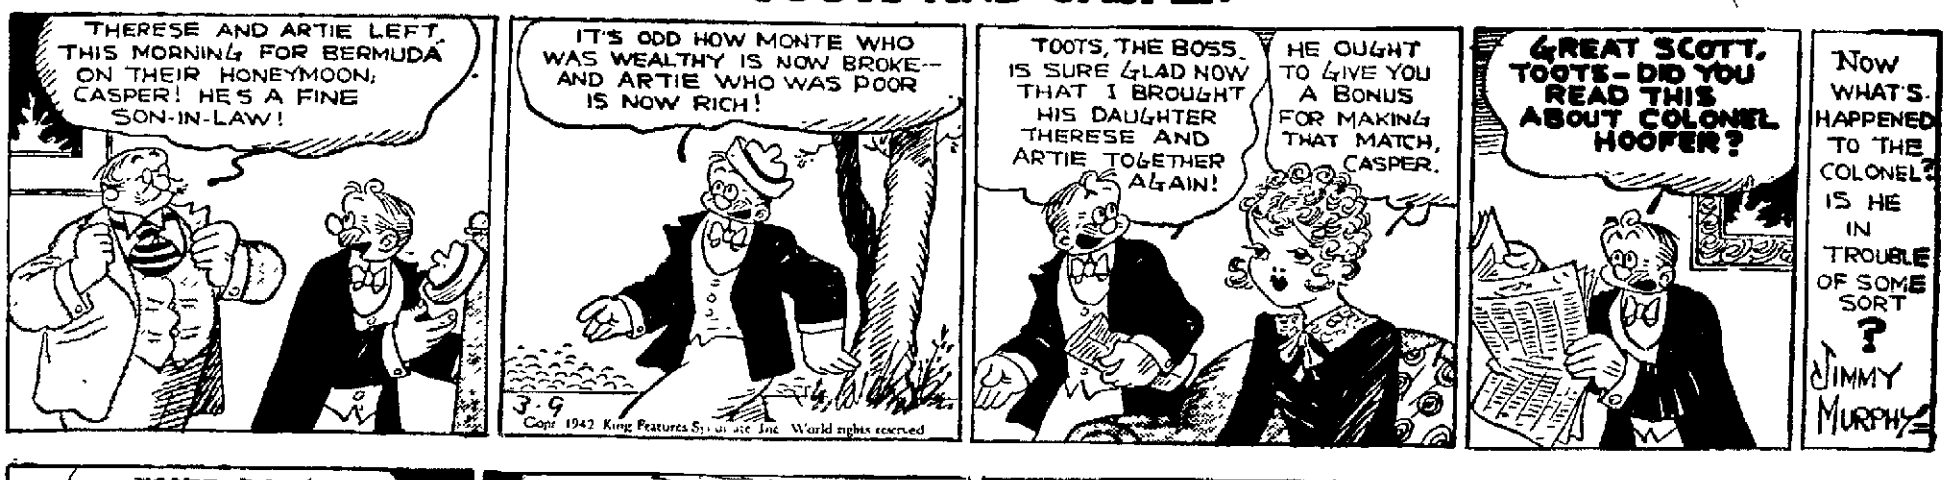
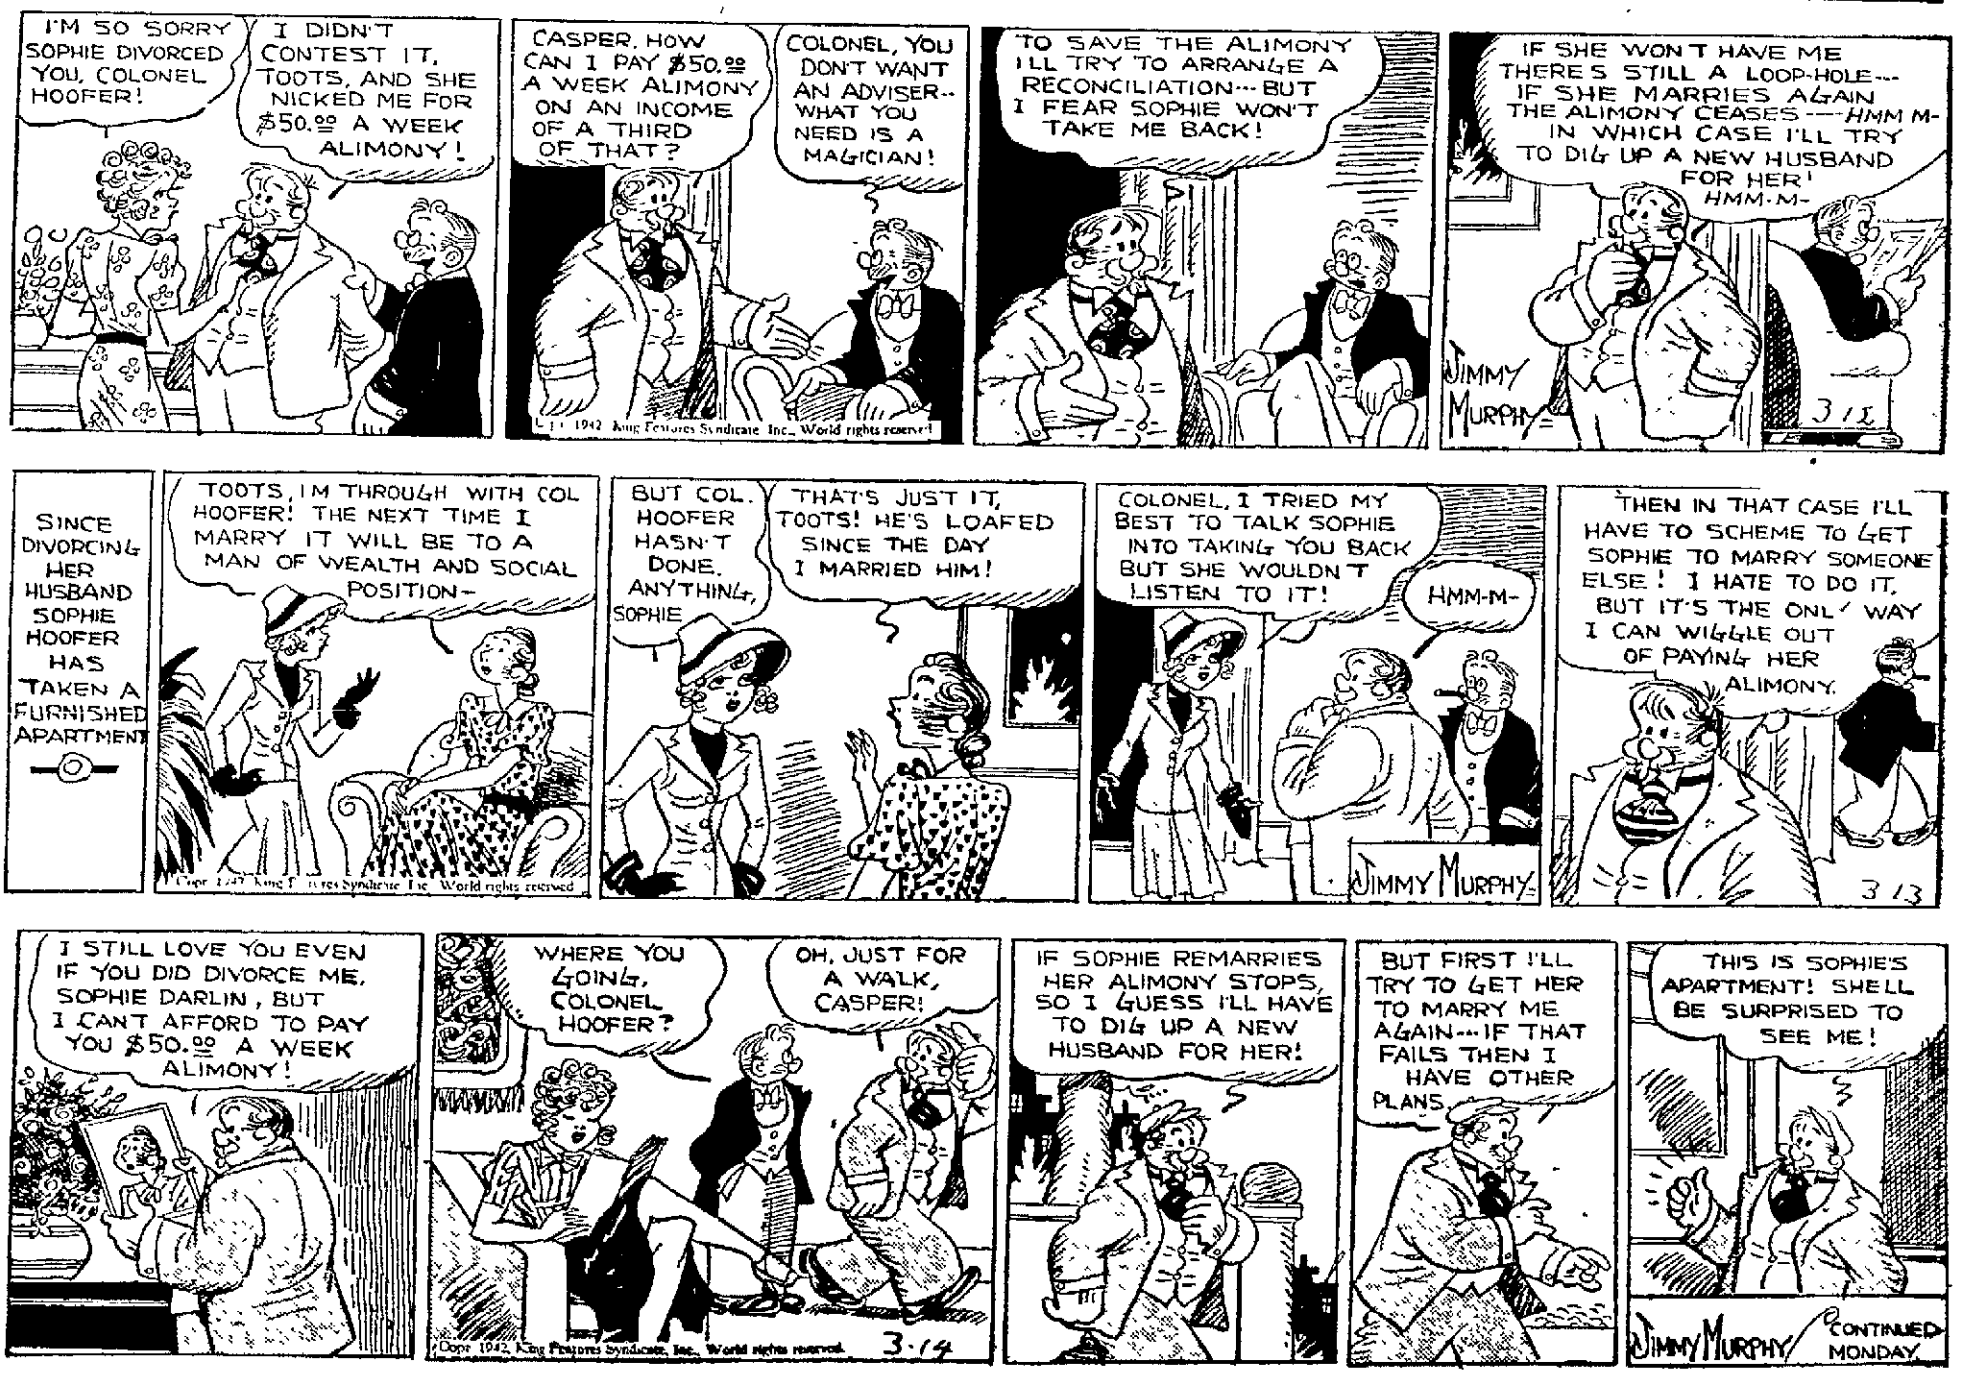
TOOTS AND CASPER



THERESE AND ARTIE LEFT THIS MORNING FOR BERMUDA ON THEIR HONEYMOON; CASPER! HE'S A FINE SON-IN-LAW!
IT'S ODD HOW MONTE WHO WAS WEALTHY IS NOW BROKE-- AND ARTIE WHO WAS POOR IS NOW RICH!
3-9
Copr. 1942 King Features Syndicate Inc. World rights reserved
TOOTS, THE BOSS IS SURE GLAD NOW THAT I BROUGHT HIS DAUGHTER THERESE AND ARTIE TOGETHER AGAIN!
HE OUGHT TO GIVE YOU A BONUS FOR MAKING THAT MATCH, CASPER.
GREAT SCOTT, TOOTS - DID YOU READ THIS ABOUT COLONEL HOOFER?
NOW WHAT'S HAPPENED TO THE COLONEL? IS HE IN TROUBLE OF SOME SORT ?
JIMMY MURPHY
TOOTS, DID YOU SEE THIS ABOUT COLONEL HOOFER?
3-10
Copr. 1942 King Features Syndicate Inc. World rights reserved
WHY THIS IS TERRIBLE, CASPER
TOOTS, IT'S AWFUL!
I FEEL SO SORRY FOR HIM!
I FEEL SORRY FOR SOPHIE, TOO!
I'LL DROP OVER AND SEE WHAT I CAN DO! WHEN THINGS LIKE THIS HAPPEN IS WHEN A GUY NEEDS A FRIEND!
JIMMY MURPHY
WHAT'S HAPPENED TO COLONEL HOOFER? WE'RE ALL CURIOUS TO KNOW!
COLONEL HOOFER, IS THIS TRUE--- THAT SOPHIE DIVORCED YOU?
YES, CASPER, IT'S TRUE!
Copr. 1942 King Features Syndicate Inc. World rights reserved
SHE JUST GOT BACK FROM RENO YESTERDAY! SHE TOOK AN APARTMENT TEMPORARILY!
IT DON'T SEEM RIGHT--- YOU TWO NOT BEING TOGETHER
I DIDN'T CONTEST THE SUIT, AND SHE HOOKED ME FOR FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK ALIMONY!
FORGET ALL THAT, COLONEL! YOU'RE GONNA LIVE WITH US UNTIL THIS BLOWS OVER!
3-11
THINK OF IT, CASPER! $50.00 A WEEK ALIMONY, AND I DON'T MAKE A THIRD THAT MUCH!
YOU MARRIED SOPHIE FOR BETTER OR WORSE, AND YOU GOT WORSE SO WHAT ARE YOU KICKING ABOUT?
JIMMY MURPHY



I'M SO SORRY SOPHIE DIVORCED YOU, COLONEL HOOFER!
I DIDN'T CONTEST IT, TOOTS, AND SHE NICKED ME FOR $50.00 A WEEK ALIMONY!
CASPER, HOW CAN I PAY $50.00 A WEEK ALIMONY ON AN INCOME OF A THIRD OF THAT?
COLONEL, YOU DON'T WANT AN ADVISER-- WHAT YOU NEED IS A MAGICIAN!
Copr. 1942 King Features Syndicate Inc. World rights reserved
TO SAVE THE ALIMONY I'LL TRY TO ARRANGE A RECONCILIATION--- BUT I FEAR SOPHIE WON'T TAKE ME BACK!
IF SHE WON'T HAVE ME THERE'S STILL A LOOP-HOLE--- IF SHE MARRIES AGAIN THE ALIMONY CEASES---HMM M- IN WHICH CASE I'LL TRY TO DIG UP A NEW HUSBAND FOR HER! HMM-M-
JIMMY MURPHY
3 12
SINCE DIVORCING HER HUSBAND SOPHIE HOOFER HAS TAKEN A FURNISHED APARTMENT
TOOTS, I'M THROUGH WITH COL HOOFER! THE NEXT TIME I MARRY IT WILL BE TO A MAN OF WEALTH AND SOCIAL POSITION-
Copr. 1942 King Features Syndicate Inc. World rights reserved
BUT COL. HOOFER HASN'T DONE ANYTHING, SOPHIE
THAT'S JUST IT, TOOTS! HE'S LOAFED SINCE THE DAY I MARRIED HIM!
COLONEL, I TRIED MY BEST TO TALK SOPHIE INTO TAKING YOU BACK BUT SHE WOULDN'T LISTEN TO IT!
HMM-M-
JIMMY MURPHY
THEN IN THAT CASE I'LL HAVE TO SCHEME TO GET SOPHIE TO MARRY SOMEONE ELSE! I HATE TO DO IT, BUT IT'S THE ONLY WAY I CAN WIGGLE OUT OF PAYING HER ALIMONY.
3 13
I STILL LOVE YOU EVEN IF YOU DID DIVORCE ME, SOPHIE DARLIN, BUT I CAN'T AFFORD TO PAY YOU $50.00 A WEEK ALIMONY!
WHERE YOU GOING, COLONEL HOOFER?
OH, JUST FOR A WALK, CASPER!
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
3-14
IF SOPHIE REMARRIES HER ALIMONY STOPS, SO I GUESS I'LL HAVE TO DIG UP A NEW HUSBAND FOR HER!
BUT FIRST I'LL TRY TO GET HER TO MARRY ME AGAIN--- IF THAT FAILS THEN I HAVE OTHER PLANS.
THIS IS SOPHIE'S APARTMENT! SHE'LL BE SURPRISED TO SEE ME!
JIMMY MURPHY

SECRET AGENT X-9

THIS AIN'T GOING TO BE DIFFICULT, SUGAR! YOU AND ME WILL HOLLER "AIR RAID!" WHEN THE BAND FINISHES THIS NUMBER!
MUST I DO THIS, FLACKIE?
LISTEN! THOSE D.A.'S BACK IN THE STATES HAVEN'T A THING ON ME — BUT PLENTY ON YOU! BAIL JUMPIN', F'RINSTANCE! NOW, HOW ABOUT IT?
ALL RIGHT, ALL RIGHT! LET'S GET IT OVER WITH!
OKAY!... AND HOLLER LOUD — SCREAM! I'LL KICK OVER A COUPLE OF TABLES... IT'LL JOLT PUBLIC MORALE ALL OVER TOWN!
ALL OVER TOWN? I DON'T SEE HOW.
SURE! THE BAND'S ON THE AIR! THE WHOLE ISLAND OF OAHU IS LISTENING IN..... WATCH IT — THEY'RE FINISHING THE NUMBER!
MEL GRAFF
THE DANCE BAND AT THE SWANK ALOHA CLUB PREPARES TO PLAY ANOTHER NUMBER.... SUDDENLY — AIR RAID!
BOMBERS!
OH-H!
HELP!
BILL! SOMETHING'S HAPPENED AT THE ALOHA CLUB!
AIR RAID! OOF! OUTA MY WAY, MONKEY!
WAIT A MINUTE, BROTHER!
THERE'S NO AIR RAID! WHO GAVE THE ALARM?
HOW DO I KNOW? LEMME GO!
MEL GRAFF
I GOT THE GIRL, X-9!
FLACKIE!
SO THAT'S THE NAME?
YEAH... AND I DON'T KNOW ABOUT ANY PHONEY AIR RAID ALARM! GET OUTA MY WAY, OR I'LL —
I'LL JUST RELIEVE THIS SNAKE OF HIS LEAD-BITE! LET'S GET HIM AND THE GIRL TO THE FBI OFFICE, BILL!
MEL GRAFF
WHAT'S THE IDEA OF PUTTIN' THESE BRACELETS ON ME AND BRINGING ME TO THIS COUP? ONE OF THOSE G-MEN, EH?
UH HUH!
I DON'T SUPPOSE THERE'S ANY POINT IN ASKING ABOUT YOU, FLACKIE?
RIGHT! I'M NOT TALKING!
THAT'S WHAT I THOUGHT... SO I CABLED WASHINGTON FOR YOUR BIOGRAPHY! NO OBJECTIONS, I HOPE... BILL, LET ME HAVE THAT RECORD!
QUITE A LOT OF ADDRESSES, FLACKIE JOLIET, SAN QUENTIN, SING SING... THE MAILMAN MUST HAVE A TIME KEEPING UP WITH YOU... BETTER SIT DOWN — YOU'RE MY GUEST!
MEL GRAFF
SABOTAGE ISN'T YOUR RACKET, FLACKIE. WHAT I CAN'T FIGURE IS WHY A GUY LIKE YOU SHOULD BE STOOGING FOR SOME FOREIGN HEIL — WHO IS HE?
YEAH — YOU'RE RIGHT... I'M AN AMERICAN... I DON'T OWE THE GUY NOTHIN'... HIS ADDRESS IS IN MY PANTS POCKET!
ONE MORE SWING LIKE THAT, FLACKIE, AND YOU'LL KNOCK YOURSELF OUT!
MEL GRAFF
THE NAME OF THE FOREIGN AGENT WHO'S BEEN FINANCING FLACKIE TO DISRUPT PUBLIC MORALE HERE IS CAPTAIN HEIL! HOW ABOUT THE GIRL, BILL?
SHE WAS BEING BLACKMAILED BY FLACKIE, X-9! SHE ADMITS SHE JUMPED BAIL... FLACKIE THREATENED TO TURN HER IN IF SHE REFUSED TO WORK WITH HIM!
THEY'RE BOTH IN THE LOCK-UP!
GOOD! LET'S PAY A CALL ON THIS CAPTAIN HEIL!
X-9! JUST A MOMENT!

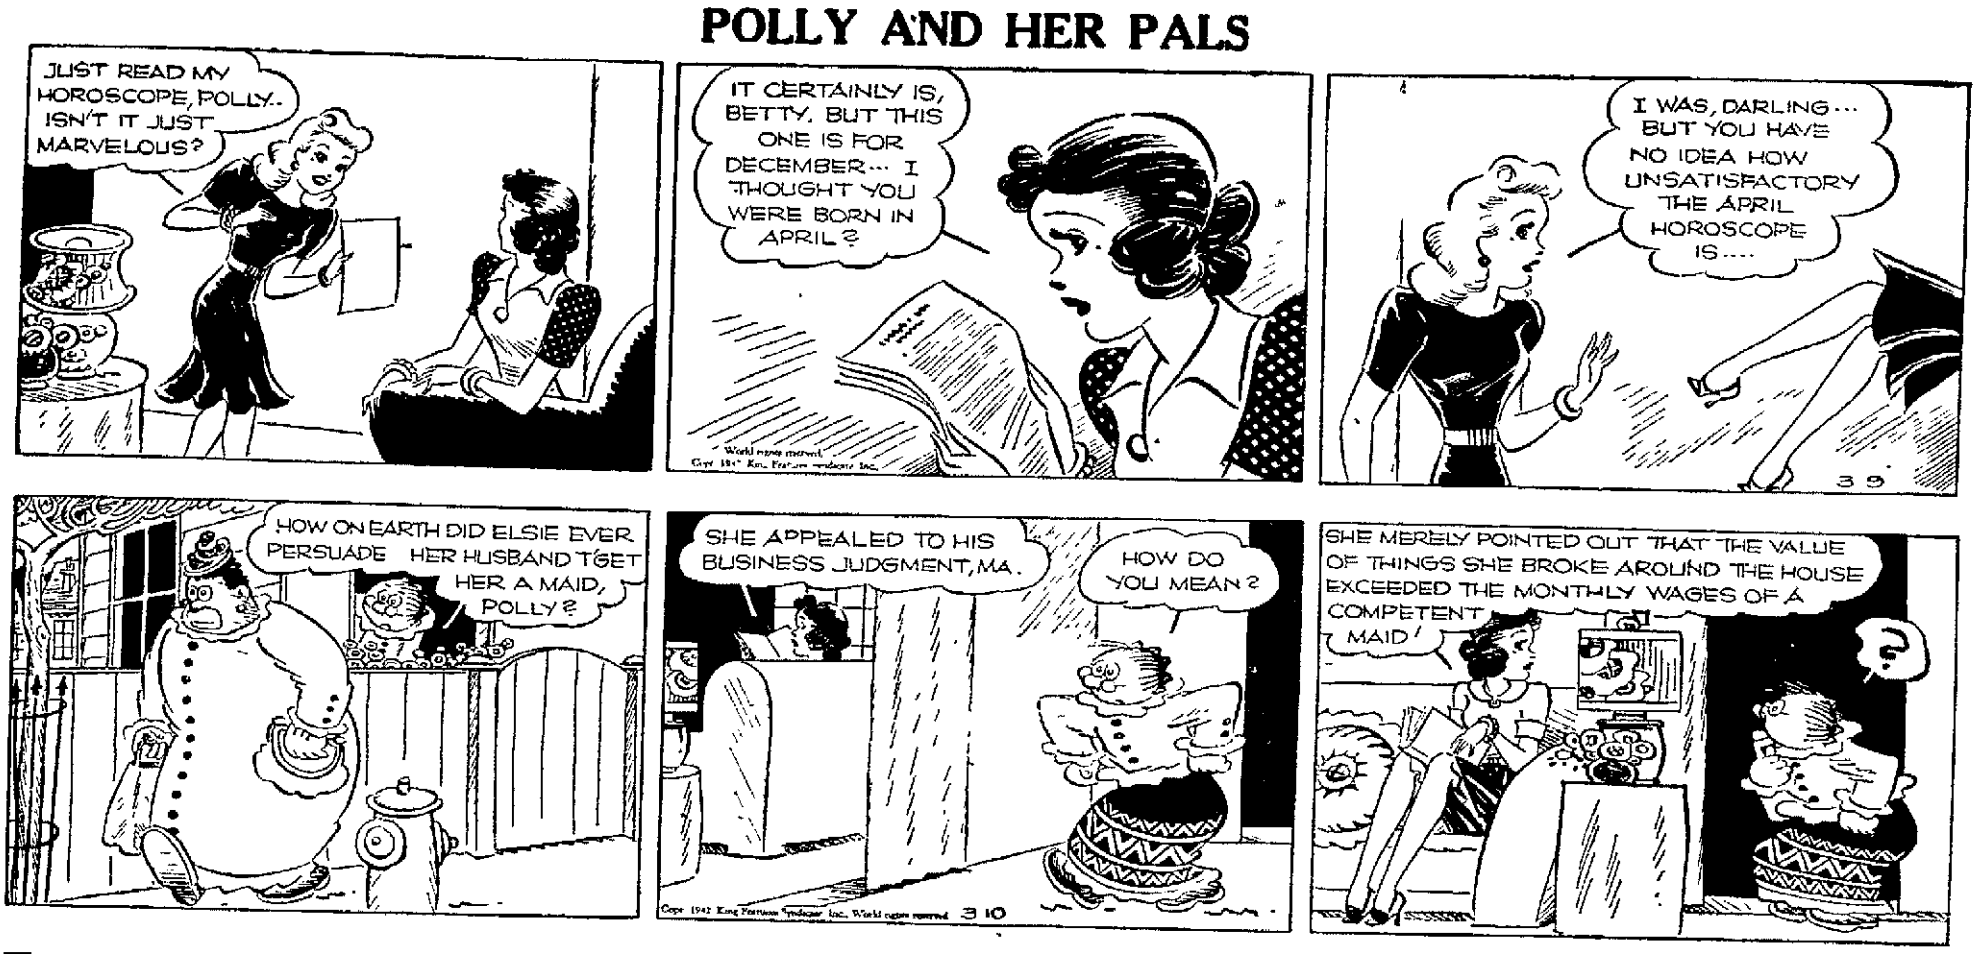
POLLY AND HER PALS



JUST READ MY HOROSCOPE, POLLY.. ISN'T IT JUST MARVELOUS?
IT CERTAINLY IS, BETTY. BUT THIS ONE IS FOR DECEMBER··· I THOUGHT YOU WERE BORN IN APRIL?
I WAS, DARLING··· BUT YOU HAVE NO IDEA HOW UNSATISFACTORY THE APRIL HOROSCOPE IS···· 39
HOW ON EARTH DID ELSIE EVER PERSUADE HER HUSBAND TO GET HER A MAID, POLLY?
SHE APPEALED TO HIS BUSINESS JUDGMENT, MA.
HOW DO YOU MEAN?
3 10
SHE MERELY POINTED OUT THAT THE VALUE OF THINGS SHE BROKE AROUND THE HOUSE EXCEEDED THE MONTHLY WAGES OF A COMPETENT MAID!
MIGHTY CRUDE THE WAY YOU GOT RID OF PETE LAST NIGHT, PA···
WOT DID HE SAY, POLLY?
THAT'S THE CRUDE PART OF IT· ·HE DIDN'T SAY A WORD!
3 11
DOG HOUSE
HE JUST WALKED THROUGH THE LIVING ROOM CARRYING A PACKAGE OF BREAKFAST FOOD!
HEY, POLLY! WOT'S THIS BILL FER TEN SMACKERS FER A NEW HAND BAG
WELL, JUST WHAT IT SAYS, I GUESS
BUT I THOUGHT YUH WUZ GOIN' T'TRY OUT THAT NEW MENTAL SYSTEM, REPEATIN' OVER AN' OVER··· "I DON'T NEED IT··· I DON'T NEED IT" ONLY I FORGOT AND LEFT OUT THE "DON'TS"!
3-12
SUSIE, HERE'S FIVE SMACKERS FER BEIN' SO THOUGHTFUL OF ME AS T' PUT THEM POSIES ON MY DESK!
HUH?? OH··THANKS, SAM'L.
NOTICE TH' FLOWERS YER MAW PUT IN HERE? SHE'S RIGHT CONSIDERATE OF HER HOUSEHOLD, SHE IS!
YOU'RE CERTAINLY RIGHT, PA
A-CHOOOOO
THEY WERE GIVING EVERYONE IN THE LIVING ROOM A TERRIBLE ATTACK OF SNEEZING
3-13
I TOLD PA ABOUT YOUR LOOKING FOR WORK. AND HE SAYS HE CAN GIVE YOU A JOB CLEANING THE CELLAR
CLEANING THE CELLAR!!
I'M AFRAID, POLLY PERKINS, YOU FORGET THAT I'M A COLLEGE MAN!
OH, I TOLD PA THAT, TOO.
AND HE SAID IT'S ALL RIGHT. HE ALWAYS KEEPS THE WINE CLOSET UNDER LOCK AND KEY!

PRINCIPAL'S OFFICE.
KNOCK!! KNOCK!! KNOCK!!
I UNDERSTAND YOU TOOK ANOTHER DAY OFF FROM SCHOOL SKEETER!! HAVE YOU ANY EXCUSE?
..ER WELL-- IT WAS A PRETTY COLD DAY...
BUT I FELT THE COLD, TOO, AND I DIDN'T LET IT KEEP ME HOME! YOU STAYED HOME FOR THE SAME REASON LAST WEEK, TOO!!
YEAH, I GUESS I'M NOT BEIN' FAIR ABOUT IT.....
... THE NEXT COLD DAY WE HAVE, SUPPOSE YOU STAY HOME AND I'LL COME TO SCHOOL!!
H'YA MR HUBERT! SISTER SENT ME OVER TO GET SOME SPINACH!-- I HOPE YOU'RE ALL OUT OF IT!
I THINK THERE'S A LITTLE LEFT!
SO YOU DON'T LIKE SPINACH, EH, SKEETER?
WELL, NOT TOO MUCH--
THERE'S PLENTY OF IT HERE-- MUST'VE COME IN WHILE I WAS OUT!! YOU CAN HAVE ALL YOU WANT!!
ER, GOSH!! MR HUBERT--WITH THINGS THE WAY THEY ARE TODAY-- Y'KNOW, SCARCITIES IN FOOD N' STUFF..
... I THINK YOU OUGHT TO RATION THE SPINACH-- AND NOT SELL MORE THAN A LEAF OR TWO TO EACH CUSTOMER!!
HEY!! HAIN'T YEW KNOTHAIDS A COMIN' T'SCHOOL!! YER GOIN' T'BE LATE!!
WE'RE SUPPOSED TO TURN IN OUR REPORT CARDS, SIGNED BY SISTER, AND WE'RE AFRAID TO EVEN LET HER SEE THEM!!
WHY DON'T YEW SIGN YER REPO'T CARDS YERSE'ES? AH ALLUS SIGNS PAPPY'S SIGNATURE TO MINE!!
I TRIED THAT ONCE, BUT IT DIDN'T WORK"
ME, TOO!! SISTER HEARD ABOUT IT AND I GOT A LICKIN'!! HOW DO YOU FOOL THE TEACHER, EFFIE?
SHUX!-- T'AIN'T NO TRICK A'TALL.
'COUNT OF AH MAKES AN X TH' SAME WAY THET PAPPY DOES!!

SISTER WON'T LET MUGGS OUT TODAY, EFFIE!!
WHUT FOR?
SHE CAUGHT HIM RAIDIN' TH' COOKIE JAR AND MADE HIM STAY IN ALL DAY
WAL, AH THINK SHE OUGHT T' LET HIM OUT JEST FER A LEETLE WHILE!!
YOU DON'T GET THE IDEA, EFFIE-- SHE'S DOING IT TO PUNISH HIM!!
SHUX! EF SHE REALLY WANTS T'PUNISH 'IM, THET'S ALL THE MORE REASON SHE SHOULD SEND 'IM OUT...
'CAUSE HE WUZ FOOLIN' 'ROUND MAH COOKIE JAR, TOO, YESTERDAY, AN' AH'VE BIN A-TRYIN' T'KITCH UP WIF 'IM EVER SINCE!
SAY, BUTTON-NOSE, WHY DIDN'T YA INTRODUCE US TO THAT NEW GIRL IN YOUR CLASS?
WHAT'S HER NAME, ANYWAY?
ANDREA!! ISN'T SHE CUTE?
IF SHE HAD A PLATTER-PUSS LIKE YOURS, I SUPPOSE YOU'D HAVE GIVEN US A KNOCK-DOWN!!
BOY!! HAS SHE GOT CLASS! SHE'LL BE THE SCHOOL'S No.1 GLAMOUR GIRL!!
IS THAT SO? WELL, TWO BOYS TOLD ME THEY THOUGHT I WAS THE PRETTIEST GIRL IN THE SCHOOL
HA! HA! WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THEIR EYESIGHT?
DUMB-BELLS!! WHO ARE THEY?
ANDREA'S TWO BROTHERS-- THAT'S WHO!!
PA, YEW SEEM A LEETLE UPSET! IS ANYTHANG TH' MATTER?
SHOR IS-- PLENTY!! ALL MAH GARDEN TOOLS IS MISSIN' FROM THE TOOL SHED!!
AN', CONSARN IT, JEST WHEN AH WUZ A-THINKIN' 'BOUT DOIN' A LEETLE SPRING PLANTIN' FER A CHANGE"
OH" YOUR TOOLS ARE SAFE MR. BROADFOOT!! EFFIE LENT THEM TO ME" I'LL GO GET THEM RIGHT AWAY!!
NAOW, DON'T BE HASTY, MUGGS!! THAR'S NO RUSH--- ANY TIME YO'RE A-COMIN' OVER THIS A-WAY--
WE'LL FETCH 'EM RIGHT AWAY QUICK, PAPPY, SO'S YEW KIN GIT YORE SPRING PLANTIN' STARTED.
SHUX!! T'AIN'T NO HURRY-- WHUT AH'M A-THINKIN' 'BOUT, IS NEXT SPRING!

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

GEE, ISN'T IT LOTSA FUN - WE JUST FINISHED GOIN' TO SCHOOL IN THE SCHOOL HOUSE - NOW, WE GOTTA HURRY UP AN' GO TO SCHOOL IN THE NOTHOUSE
I'M SO BUSY LEARNING ABOUT SEEDS AND SOIL AND HOW TO GROW THINGS I CAN HARDLY THINK OF ANYTHING ELSE
I EVEN DREAM ABOUT WORKING ON MY OWN LITTLE VICTORY FARM
3-9
OH, LOOK! LOOK! THE MAN IS STARTING TO PLOW THE GROUND WHERE ALL OUR LITTLE VICTORY FARMS ARE GOING TO BE!
GLORYOSKY! PRETTY SOON WE KIN STOP DREAMIN' AN' START GROWIN' STUFF TO HELP OUR COUNTRY - WON'T IT BE GRAND!?!
DARRELL McCLURE
COME ON, QUICK, ANNIE - WE'RE PLAYING A GEOGRAPHY RIDDLE GAME - IT'S AS FUNNY AS A CIRCUS
OH, HANNA - YOU THINK EVERYTHING IS FUNNY
I SEE A LARGE BODY OF WATER - IT IS ALL COVERED WITH DEAD WOOD - DEAD DUCKS AND FISH - WHAT'S THE NAME OF - HA-HA - I KNOW - THE DEAD SEA!
NOW I SEE A LARGE BODY OF WATER - IT IS ALL COVERED WITH RED INDIANS IN RED CANOES - THEY ALL USE RED PADDLES AND HAVE RED FEATHERS IN THEIR HAIR - WHAT IS THE NAME OF THAT LARGE BODY OF WATER?
THE RED SEA!!
HA, HA - YOU'RE ALL WRONG - HA, HA - IT'S THE INDIAN OCEAN!!
D. McC.
YES, ANNIE - I DO THINK MR. OLIVER IS A SMART MAN AND I AM SURE HE HAS THE KINDEST HEART IN THE WORLD - ALWAYS THINKING UP WAYS OF HELPING FOLKS
I WAS RAISED ON A FARM, AND I KNOW THE LITTLE VICTORY FARMS YOU YOUNGSTERS ARE GOING TO SPEND AN HOUR A DAY WORKING ON, WILL PROVE A WONDERFUL THING -
EVEN THOUGH EACH FARM WILL NOT BE MUCH BIGGER THAN A CARPET, IF ALL THE CHILDREN IN THIS COUNTRY COULD HAVE A LITTLE VICTORY FARM, THE HARVEST WOULD SEEM LIKE A MIRACLE FROM HEAVEN
GEE, US KIDS WILL FEEL GLAD ALL OVER, IF WE KIN HELP OUR COUNTRY - EVEN A TINY LITTLE BIT
BLESS YOU, CHILD, YOU'LL HELP MORE THAN YOU KNOW AND YOUR REWARD WILL BE ROSY CHEEKS, HEALTHY BODIES AND THE JOY OF DOING SOMETHING WITH YOUR OWN TWO LITTLE HANDS
I'M NOT DENYIN' THIS OLD ORPHAN OLIVER DOES "SOME" CHARITABLE WORK IN OUR COMMUNITY - BUT IT MIGHT BE JUST A CLOAK TO HIDE SOME SLICK MONEY-MAKING SCHEME!
MAYOR'S OFFICE
2-17
WELL, I'M ADMITTING THE ONLY THING I KNOW FOR CERTAIN 'BOUT OLIVER IS THAT HE'S DONE A HEAP MORE KIND THINGS FOR FOLKS THAN ANY TEN MEN IN THE COUNTY, AN' I'VE LEARNED IT FROM THE FOLKS HE HELPED - WITH NEVER A PEEP OUTA OLIVER, HIMSELF
I'VE SEARCHED THE COUNTY RECORDS AND FIND OLIVER DOESN'T OWN AN INCH OF THE GROUND HE LIVES ON! HE HAS NO CHARTER - NO LICENSE - NO INCORPORATION PAPERS - EVERYTHING HE DOES IS A SECRET -
WELL - I FIGGER YOU CAN'T HANG A MAN FOR THE THINGS YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT HIM
GLORYOSKY, ZERO - THERE GOES ANOTHER LOAD OF PINE TREES - ISN'T MR. OLIVER GRAND - NO MATTER WHAT WE MAKE, MR. OLIVER KIN FIND A PLACE TO SELL 'EM AS QUICK AS WE MAKE 'EM
DARRELL McCLURE
GLORYOSKY, ZERO - WILL YA LOOK AT ALL THE CUTE LITTLE SPROUTS PEEKIN' UP OUTA THE GROUND? - A COUPLA WEEKS AGO THEY WERE JUST TINY SEEDS THAT YOU COULD HARDLY SEE - 3-13
I THINK SEEDS ARE SWELL - ALL WINTER LONG THEY HAVE TO STAY 'WAY DOWN IN THE GROUND WHERE IT'S DARK AN' FREEZING - BUT THEY AREN'T SCARED -
THEY JUST STAY DOWN THERE WAITIN' UNTIL THE SNOW AN' ICE ARE ALL GONE AN' THEN THEY START TO CLIMB UP TO THE SUN-SHINE - IT MUST BE TERRIBLE HARD TO CLIMB UP WITH ALL THAT GROUND PILED UP ON TOP OF YOU -
DARRELL McCLURE
BUT THE LITTLE SEEDS ARE AWFUL BRAVE - THEY JUST KEEP ON TRYIN' AN' TRYIN' ALL THE TIME AN' EVEN IF THEY'RE FEELIN' TIRED, THEY DON'T STOP - 'CAUSE THEY KNOW SOME DAY THEY'RE GONNA BE A SWELL FLOWER OR VEGETABLE AN' HEAR EVERYBODY SAYIN', "AREN'T THEY GRAND?"
GLORYOSKY - THE BABY CHICKS LOOK LIKE A LOTTA LITTLE YELLOW FLOWERS WITH TWO LITTLE STEMS TO RUN AROUND ON
I JUST LOVE TO WATCH THEM, BECAUSE THEY'RE ALL INCUBATOR CHICKENS
INCUBATOR CHICKENS? WHAT DOES THAT MEAN??
IT MEANS THEY'RE ORPHANS - JUST LIKE US - INSTEAD OF BEING BORN IN A NEST LIKE REGULAR CHICKENS ARE, THEY ARE BORN IN A GREAT, BIG OVEN
HONEST? NO FOOLIN'?
THAT'S RIGHT, LILY - THEY'RE ALL ORPHANS - AN' YOU KIN TELL BY THE WAY THEY RUN THEY'RE HAPPY AN' HEALTHY AN' THEY LOOK BEAUTIFUL - I GUESS THAT'S WHY MR. OLIVER SEZ, "ORPHANS ARE MOTHER NATURE'S FAVORITE CHILDREN"

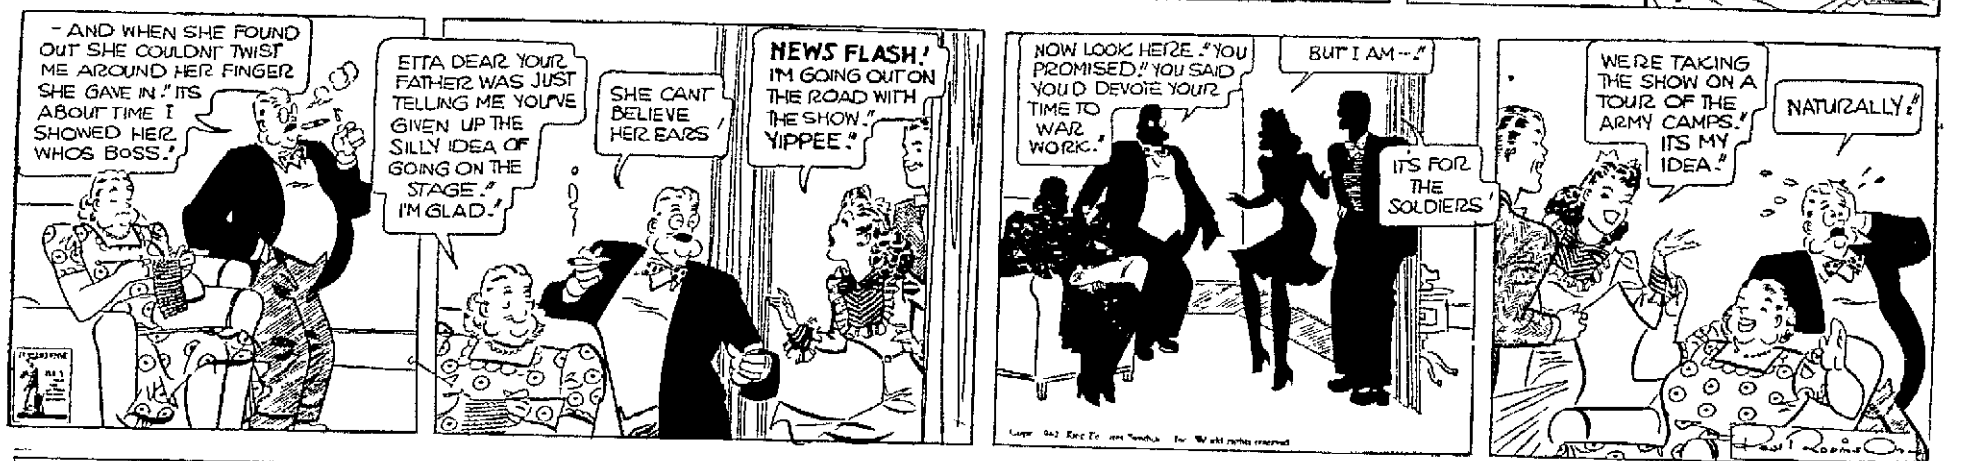
When TOMMY decided to open his musical show YOUNG IDEAS in ETTA'S home town he hit oil HERE THEY ARE OPENING NIGHT -
3-9
SNAZZY FOOTWORK BABE! THAT DANCE IS SUPER-DOOPER! YOU'VE GOT EM ROLLING IN THE AISLES."
LOCAL GAL MAKES GOOD!
ISN'T SHE SIMPLY WONDERFUL? AREN'T YOU PROUD OF HER..!?
STOP APPLAUDING OR WE'LL NEVER GET THIS STAGE IDEA OUT OF HER HEAD."
CLAP! CLAP! CLAP!
LISTEN TO EM GETTING CORNS ON THEIR HANDS!
BABY, TAKE A BOW!
I TELL YOU A WOMANS PLACE IS IN THE HOME! I'M GETTING FED UP ON THIS CAREER GIRL STUFF!
WHY TELL ME? TELL ETTA! YOU'RE BOSS. PUT YOUR FOOT DOWN."
HARUMPH!
WAIT! WHATS THE IDEA RUNNING OUT? DONT YOU WANTA HEAR ALL THE WRITE UPS I GOT?
AWRK!
NOW LOOK HERE YOUNG LADY!" YOU LISTEN TO ME YOU'RE NOT GOING ON THE STAGE," IS THAT CLEAR?"
BUT DAD, I'M SUPER-DOOPER - THE PAPERS ALL RAVE!"
LET EM! YOU'RE THRU!" IT'S CURTAINS!" THE LAST ACT!"
WHAT ABOUT MY CAREER? BESIDES IVE GOT A CONTRACT WITH TOMMY!



- AND WHEN SHE FOUND OUT SHE COULDNT TWIST ME AROUND HER FINGER SHE GAVE IN!" ITS ABOUT TIME I SHOWED HER WHOS BOSS!
ETTA DEAR YOUR FATHER WAS JUST TELLING ME YOU'VE GIVEN UP THE SILLY IDEA OF GOING ON THE STAGE." I'M GLAD!
SHE CANT BELIEVE HER EARS!
NEWS FLASH! IM GOING OUT ON THE ROAD WITH THE SHOW." YIPPEE!"
NOW LOOK HERE." YOU PROMISED." YOU SAID YOU'D DEVOTE YOUR TIME TO WAR WORK."
BUT I AM--"
IT'S FOR THE SOLDIERS!
WE'RE TAKING THE SHOW ON A TOUR OF THE ARMY CAMPS." ITS MY IDEA."
NATURALLY!"
ETTA DARLING!" I'VE SIMPLY GOT TO SEE YOU A MINUTE!
MAKE IT ZIPPY CHUM!" I'M LEAVING WITH THE SHOW! WE'RE TOURING THE ARMY CAMPS!
I KNOW -- THATS WHY I WANT TO TALK TO YOU -- ITS ABOUT WAYNE -- HES IN TRAINING - I WANT YOU TO LOOK HIM UP
HE WAS QUITE A FLIRT - WHERE IS HE - IN THE SIGNAL CORPS?
HI! WHAT'S COOKIN'?
IT'S THE TERMITE AFTER MY BAGS"
SH H H H! DONT TELL HIM I'M HERE!
HOWS PAPAS LIL' SMORGASBORD? WHATS THE IDEA CHECKIN OUT OF MY LIFE?
BE A CHUM TERMIE!" SCRAMBLE I'LL BE RIGHT OUT."
3-12

WHAT ABOUT WAYNE? YOU SAY HE'S IN CAMP?
WE WERE ENGAGED." WISH I HAD MARRIED HIM BEFORE HE LEFT - LIKE HE WANTED ME TOO."
BEEP BEEP
HEY! BREAK IT UP!
KEEP YOUR BRAKES ON!
- NOW HE DOESNT WRITE AS OFTEN - HIS LETTERS ARE GROWING COLD
- HE TELLS ME NOT TO WAIT FOR HIM ANY LONGER
H M-M-M!" SOUNDS LIKE HE FALLING FOR SOMEONE ELSE"
I'LL CHECK ON HIM"
3-13
YOU RE GOING TO CAMP TELL HIM I'LL WAIT." IF THE WAR LASTS TEN YEARS -- PLEASE, TELL HIM I'LL WAIT."
LEAVE IT TO ME! HE'S IN THE BAG"
It's opening night for the show in camp - here's ETTA doing her stuff.....
NOW YOU RE COOKIN' WITH GAS!
HEY ETTA - THERES A SOLDIER BACK STAGE
TO SEE ME? YOU SAY HES FROM MY HOME TOWN?
3-14
REMEMBER ME? THE FIRST BOY FRIEND YOU EVER HAD - I PROPOSED TO YOU WHEN I WAS SIX!
WAYNE!" I HAVENT SEEN YOU SINCE YOU HAD BRACES ON YOUR TEETH! WELL -- WHO SAID THE ARMY DOESNT MAKE MEN!
I HEAR THERES A DANCE AFTER THE SHOW! HOW ABOUT STEPPING A FEW FOR OLD TIMES SAKE?

It's Only 3 Weeks Till Easter—Don't Delay—Call Swan Now!
